

THREAT OF NEW STRIFE LOOMS ON STEEL FRONT

Governor Davey Turns Down Suggestion of Secretary Perkins

CIO CONDEMNS USE OF GUARDS

Union Files Suit To Enjoin Executive In His Policy

By The Associated Press.

YOUNGSTON, O., June 26.—While the steel strike front rumbled with threats of new strife, Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio told labor leaders to night he had turned down flatly Labor Secretary Perkins' "autocratic and dictatorial" plan for forcing a settlement.

Since the failure of her mediation board's peace efforts, Davey said, Miss Perkins had asked him to keep steel plants closed and to bring steel makers Tom Girdler and Frank Purcell to the state capital—"and keep them there until they signed an agreement."

Miss Perkins, he added, had suggested by long distance telephone from Washington that he use the subpoena power of the state industrial commission to bring the steel men to Columbus.

Miss Perkins, in reply, said to-night she "merely suggested" to Governor Davey that he use the state commission's subpoena power to bring the steel men into peace conference with strike leaders. Her mediation board, she recalled, had suggested the conference method of settling the strike.

"Guards To Protect"

"I have no right to keep plants closed except in case of riot," said the governor whose order to National Guardsmen to protect those employees wanting to work was responsible for the reopening of Youngstown plants yesterday.

"Secretary Perkins' suggestion would be in my judgment the exercise of the most autocratic and dictatorial powers ever attempted."

"In private life it would be kidnapping. Until the courts have decided that the companies have to sign contracts or agreements I have no right to take anyone and hold them."

"That might be all right in Germany or Italy. I am not going to abuse my constitutional power for Mr. Girdler or anyone else. * * *

Refuses To Call Off Guards

"I recognize that I may have committed political suicide. I knew from the outset that the situation was loaded with dynamite, but I have put politics out of consideration."

Davey refused to remove the National Guard from the mill towns.

The labor delegation, informed of Davey's decision, then adopted a resolution to "vigorously condemn Governor Davey for his alignment with the steel autocrats."

It described the executive as a "low type politician who made promises and continually violated them."

Claims and counter-claims echoed along the strike-embroiled region from Johnstown, Pa., to Warren, O., with leaders of steel flatly asserting:

"The strike is over. The mills are going. The men are coming back."

They said thousands of mill hands returned to Mahoning Valley steel plants under the protection of Ohio National Guardsmen during the day.

Retort By C. I. O. Leaders

C. I. O. chieftains retorted: "We have just begun to fight."

At the eastern end of the salient, at Johnstown, union officials mapped plans for a huge Sunday mass meeting of coal miners and striking steel workers.

James Mark, white-haired C. I. O. leader, called for a mass "invasion" of the city by coal miners from all over Western Pennsylvania. Union officials said they expected "between 50,000 and 100,000 men."

The situation in Johnstown tonight was last week-end's crisis, when Gov. George H. Earle proclaimed martial law and shut down Bethlehem steel's Cambria works after a similar threatened march by 40,000 miners to demonstrate "sympathy" for the steel strikers.

In contrast to the steel executive's claims that the strike was "broken" by concerted back-to-work movements in Ohio and Pennsylvania, Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers organizing committee, declared:

"We have every reason to believe that the strike in four of the nation's big independent steel mills will be won."

He instructed all C. I. O. lodge officers to "continue the conflict until victory attends our efforts."

Murray also wired Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, urging him to hold employees' elections under supervision of the National Labor Relations Board "to deter-

TWO CASES SET FOR TRIAL MONDAY

Two cases are set for trial in the circuit court Monday. One is that of Lloyd Kennon, charged with possession of a gambling device, the other a charge of petty larceny and disturbing the peace against Lloyd and John Dalton. They are charged with taking pieces of pasteboard on which are certain records from a WPA project near Green Ridge and disturbing the peace of L. M. Dowdy, foreman.

Witnesses have been summoned in both cases.

DIRECTED VERDICT IN THE CASE OF E. G. STANFORTH

Discharged During Trial on False Pretenses Charge In Court

E. G. "Bert" Stanforth, former Sedalian, more recently of Illinois, brought back to Sedalia to answer to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was discharged Saturday afternoon after the jury had returned an instructed verdict in favor of the defendant. The state, the court ruled at the close of the state's evidence, had failed to make a case.

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, in requesting the foreman to sign an instructed verdict, explained very clearly the status of the hearing.

The information charged Mr. Stanforth with obtaining certain stocks of the Farm and Home Loan and Savings Association of Missouri, to the value of $1616.10, property of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ramlow and son, 1361 West Fourth street, this city in March 1934, and converting them to his own use. It alleged further that the stocks had been obtained from Mrs. Ramlow through misrepresentation, that he had made certain statements to her which were, allegedly false, but which she believed were true and she was induced to give him the stocks.

The testimony as given by Mrs. Ramlow was, the court explained, that Mr. Stanforth had gone to her home one day when her husband was at work, asked for the stock which he said he had arranged to purchase from her husband, told her it would be two or three days before he could dispose of them, and gave her a receipt for same. According to Mrs. Ramlow's own testimony there was no misrepresentation to her to secure the stock.

Law of Limitation Element

Another element which entered into the case was that of the law of limitation. The alleged offense took place March 10, 1934, and Stanforth was not arrested until April of this year. Three years, which is the time limit, had expired, and this may have entered into the case as a question for the jury, had the trial not ceased at the close of the state evidence.

Mr. Ramlow, the first witness, stated that a couple of days prior to March 10, 1934, he entered into an agreement with Mr. Stanforth, whereby the latter was to purchase from him certain stocks at 62 cents on the dollar, the total amount to be $1616.10, for cash. The defendant went to the Ramlow home he said and there secured the stocks from Mrs. Ramlow, giving her in return a receipt, stating the money was to be remitted as the stocks were sold.

Mr. Ramlow told of three or four communications he received from Stanforth, with reference to the matter, of the receipt of $540.64 on one occasion and $250 on another, and then of his inability to hear from him, or to learn definitely where he was.

Mrs. Ramlow followed her husband on the stand, telling of Stanforth's visit to her home, J. W. Green, Nevada, assistant secretary of the Farm and Home Loan and Savings Association identified the stock certificates; Sheriff W. L. Martin and C. W. Coppers, deputy, told of going to Illinois with L. J. Harned, prosecuting attorney to take Stanforth in custody. They both stated that Stanforth told him he was then working for a Kansas City film house, traveling in Illinois, W. B. Blain gave evidence of having had some communication with Stanforth in September, 1934, Lee Montgomery told of business transactions with him that same year and Mrs. L. L. Jones identified stationery she had used in doing some stenographic work for him which gave his home as Indianapolis. L. L. Jones also testified as to Stanforth driving a car with Indiana plates in 1934 and 1935, and Illinois plates in 1936.

L. J. Harned, prosecuting attorney represented the state and D. S. Lamm and Lawrence Barnett and Fred Wesner the defendant.

Members of the jury were, Finis Withers, foreman, Marion Woodworth, A. R. Sands, W. H. Tickmeyer, Roy Alexander, John Stout, Henry Ault, Junior Sellers, A. L. Watring, C. L. Bucher, George Helms and Don Middleton.

MARY PICKFORD AND BUDDY ROGERS WED SATURDAY

"America's Sweetheart" To Movie Lovers Bride In Attractive Garden

BUT SMALL PARTY OF WEDDING GUESTS

Couple Will Enjoy a Honey-moon Trip To Hawaii

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Dainty Mary Pickford—"America's sweetheart"—to theater-going millions at the peak of her screen fame—knelt in a garden today on a white satin pillow and took as her third husband the handsome Charles (Buddy) Rogers.

She gave her age as 43, he as 34.

Under a Sycamore tree decorated with Calla Lilies, Miss Pickford and Rogers, actor-orchestra leader, softly spoke their marriage vows at a brief ceremony witnessed by only 17 relatives and friends.

The actress, whose curls once were the toast of the film world, appeared deeply moved by the simple rites. When the dark-haired Rogers slipped the ring on his blue-ribboned bride's finger in the double ceremony, she smiled, gripped her hand and squeezed the ring tightly.

The bride, whose previous marriages to Owen Moore and Douglas Fairbanks ended in divorce, was late for the wedding. Wearing a blue crepe gown and carrying a spray of orchids, she found Buddy waiting for her when she arrived minutes past the three p. m. wedding hour at the home of the Louis D. Lightons.

Marrying Judge Attends

In the small group of witnesses stood the genial, white-haired father of Buddy, Probate Judge Bert H. Rogers, whose "cupid's parlor" at Olathe, Kas., has been the scene of hundreds of weddings. He had hoped to the last he would perform the ceremony of Mary and Buddy there.

The wedding was on a hill overlooking the town that made the couple famous.

Never in all the history of Hollywood has an event been guarded with such rigid attention to detail. The estate where it took place is tucked away in the foothills on a lonely one-way road. The garden where they stood is ringed with high fences outside and inside.

Police were outside and inside.

Judge Rogers, who has officiated at more than 5,000 weddings in his home county, described the ceremony.

"Mary looked a little nervous, but not much. Say, she's a honey, isn't she? Buddy smoked three cigarettes in a row before they started the wedding march, but when the ceremony really began, he was fine."

"I guess I got a lump in my throat when I saw my two boys standing there." The groom's brother, B.H., accompanied him to the altar. The judge said Mrs. Rogers wept a little.

The ceremony, in the Congregational church rites, was performed by the Rev. James Hamilton Lash.

Selman Chaff, cousin of Miss Pickford, gave away the bride.

Mrs. Lighton was matron of honor.

"I guess it was busman's holiday for me," said Judge Rogers later. "They call me 'the marrying judge' at home, and here I am, with a weekend off, attending a marriage."

It was Rogers' first marriage. Immediately after the ceremony, the guests assembled in an ante-room, drinking champagne for 15 minutes, the bride and groom were alone together in another room. Then they reappeared, radiant as two children.

Mary left the corsage of Orchids she had carried, and her long gloves on a table in the library. When the moment came to cut the cake, there was a frantic scramble to find them. By this time, newsreel cameras, photographers and reporters had filled the garden.

Rogers looked tired as he posed with her for pictures but when Mary smiled at him he squeezed her hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers sail tonight for Honolulu on the same boat with Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond, whose marriage last week was one of the largest attended ever held in the film colony.

Mary and "Buddy" met when he was her best-man in the picture, "My Best Girl." It was written by Mrs. Lighton.

Witnesses to the marriage included Rogers' parents, Judge and Mrs. B. H. Rogers, who came here from their home in Olathe, Kas.; Gwynne Pickford, Mary's niece and adopted daughter; Mrs. Chaff and her son Don; John Lock, husband of the late Lottie Pickford, Mary's sister; Mrs. F. E. Benson, cousin of the bride; Mrs. John Binford, Buddy's

PLANE ZOOMS LOW OVER SEDALIA

Early morning shoppers were excited Saturday morning, about 9:10 o'clock, when a large plane reported having markings like a naval training plane zoomed very low over the city of Sedalia, from the northeast and going westward from the city.

A second plane was sighted about 2,000 feet in the air apparently following the plane which passed over the city building probably not more than 100 feet in the air. Two other planes, identified as government aircraft, passed over Sedalia a few minutes before at an altitude estimated at about 4,000 feet.

Shoppers and business men rushed from the stores into the street to see what caused the noise and scarcely had a glimpse of the fast flying ship.

Some believed the ship was one from the Tommy Webber flying field, but when interviewed by a newspaper reporter, Mr. Webber stated that none of his ships had been in the air at that time of the morning nor were any of the students' ships in the air.

Mr. Webber further stated he would not permit any of the students, or pilots, flying from the Webber airport to fly that low over Sedalia, having already instructed such pilots that should they pass over Sedalia they must be not less than 1,500 feet in the air.

U. S. LABOR BOARD FILES COMPLAINT AGAINST FORD CO.

Charges Brutal Assaults Against Organizers of U. A. W. A.

DETROIT, June 26.—(P)—The National Labor Relations Board, charging the Ford Motor Company with responsibility for "malicious and brutal assaults" on United Automobile Workers organizers, issued a complaint against the company today and set July 6 for a hearing.

The complaint contended that the Ford company is "interfering with, restraining and coercing" its employees for the purpose of discouraging membership in a labor organization.

Referring to the beating of union organizers attempting to distribute literature outside gates of the huge Ford Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn May 26, the NLRB listed fourteen persons including three women as having been "maliciously assaulted, attacked and beaten."

It charged that the Ford company "by its officers, agents, employees and representatives, instigated, encouraged and acquiesced" in the assaults.

Other charges included: "Threats, warnings, and acts of violence and intimidation" against U. A. W. A. members.

A Vote of Confidence

Circulation among Rouge plant employees of a paper entitled "A Vote of Confidence" during "working hours and otherwise under circumstances calculated to intimidate and coerce" the employees into signing it.

Solicitation of membership in the "Ford Brotherhood of America, Inc.," which the NLRB said "occurred with the knowledge and consent" of the company, during working hours.

Discharge of 29 employees of the Rouge plant during the past year "by reason of their affiliation with membership in, or activity in behalf of" the U. A. W. A. of A.

Hearing July 6

Discharge or lay-off of other employees because of failure or refusal to sign the "vote of confidence" paper.

No Ford official could be reached this afternoon for comment on the complaint.

Following the July 6 hearing here, the National Board under usual procedure would announce its findings on the charges at Washington.

If the Ford company declined to comply with a board order, the board would request a writ of enforcement from the United States circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati. Violation of this writ would constitute contempt of court.

A second agency of the federal government—Senator La Follette's Civil Liberties Committee—also has been investigating the May 26 fighting. It has placed two Ford employees under subpoena to testify at a hearing in Washington, set tentatively for July 1.

At the request of Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy conducted a one-man grand jury investigation into the affair.

Judge Liddy completed his inquiry Friday and is reviewing the testimony before taking any action on it.

REMOVE SALES TAX TOKEN FROM CHILD'S THROAT

WICHITA, Kas., June 26.—Physicians removed a Kansas sales tax token with a bronchoscope last night from the throat of Rose Ellen Mosley, 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Mosley. The child swallowed the aluminum disc while playing with a purse.

WPA PROJECTS TO BE COMPLETED

The merging of the Sedalia WPA offices, headquarters for the fourth district, with the Kansas City office, will take place July 1, Frank Monroe, fourth area administrator stated Saturday. That means the local WPA office here will be closed and Mr. Monroe, who is to be assistant administrator of the newly formed district, and as many of the office force as are retained, will be located in Kansas City.

Mr. Monroe went to Kansas City Saturday for a conference with Charles G. Haake, administrator of the new second district with reference to the administrative personnel. As the merging of the offices is an economical move a number of employees of both offices will be released. The names of those selected to remain will be submitted to state administrator Matthew Murray for approval Monday.

Mr. Monroe said that the change in headquarters will not interfere with any of the projects now under way.

HOLD PARLEYS IN EFFORT TO ADJUST LABOR SITUATION

Police Director Told To Arrest Law Violators In Kansas City

KATZ STORES CLOSED SATURDAY NIGHT

Plant Furnishing Crushed Rock Asks Injunction of Federal Court

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—In law offices, police headquarters, a hotel meeting room, and the courts, attempts were made today to alleviate Kansas City's tense labor conditions.

The emergency committee for law and order—70 business men and civic leaders—adopted a resolution calling upon city officials to protect trucks, delivery vehicles, and commercial conveyances. C. C. Peters, appointed by the committee, presented the resolution to City Manager H. F. McElroy.

"Resolved that * * * the stopping of these vehicles and the following intimidation and threatening of their drivers are plain violations of the law and are, in effect, kidnapping and boycott," the resolution said.

McElroy said he assumed responsibility for law enforcement in Kansas City, and told Otto P. Higgins, director of police: "I want you to enforce the law, to apprehend and arrest any violators and see that they are prosecuted."

Representatives of the Katz Drug Company conferred with union leaders concerning a strike which has closed two of the concern's seven stores in Greater Kansas City. The walkout, called yesterday morning, followed demands for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Max Dyer, secretary of the Central Labor Union, and C. W. Duncan, organizer for the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association, met with drug store officials for three hours. Dyer and Duncan said a settlement was not reached, but that progress was made. Both union officers said they still were open to negotiations.

Look For Settlement

Duncan said it was possible the strike might be settled tomorrow. A meeting of the store employees local union was called for 7 p. m. tomorrow. All Katz stores in Greater Kansas City closed at 6 p. m. today.

Five Katz stores opened on schedule today, one of them being patrolled by 10 policemen. Non-striking employees slept on cots in the store last night and breakfasted on food from the lunch counter and soda fountain. Police said a stone was thrown through a second floor window in the home of Morris B. Schlenker, Katz merchandise manager, during the evening.

Duncan said 340 Katz employees, out of the 421 union members, voted for the strike yesterday. The union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

RESCUE SHIP NEAR BURNING FREIGHTER

NEW YORK, June 26.—MacKay radio said tonight it had received a message from the S. S. President Pierce saying she was nearing the burning British freighter Sandgate Castle, far out in the Atlantic, and was preparing to pick up lifeboats bearing crew members of the stricken vessel.

The message said the President Pierce had come "about abreast" of the Sandgate Castle and was "going to pick up the boats as soon as we come up with them."

"They are around us now," the message said, "the ship has not sunk yet, but burning and low in water."

Earlier, the Globe wireless had received a message relayed from the President Pierce that the crew of the burning vessel was abandoning ship.

RETAIL GROCERS TO HAVE MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

The Sedalia Independent Retail Grocers Association will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting at Hotel Botwell Monday, June 28th at 8 p. m.

The business session will include the reports of the delegates who recently returned from the National Retail Grocers Convention at Boston, Mass.

AMELIA EARHART NEXT TO AUSTRALIA

KOEPANG, Timor Dutch East Indies, June 27.—(Sunday)—Amelia Earhart landed her silver monoplane at 1:30 p. m. (10:30 p. m. CST Saturday) here today after a flight from Bandung, Java, a distance of approximately 1,200 miles.

The noted American flier, accompanied by her Navigator, Capt. Fred Noonan, completed a new leg of her around the world flight on a course over the Sunda Islands skirting the Flores sea.

After refueling and a check of the plane, Miss Earhart was expected to take off late today for Port Darwin, Australia.

The next leg will take her across the Timor sea, a hop that is considered dangerous because of uncertain weather conditions.

NEW INSURGENT PUSH ON MADRID TO END THE WAR

City's 'Iron Ring' Will be Broken Declares Mussolini Paper

MADRID, June 26.—A new drive to capture Madrid and end the Spanish war appeared imminent tonight as Insurgents launched heavy attacks against the capital's defenders.

The offensive, preceded by shelling, came almost simultaneously with a prediction by Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper, the Popolo D'Italia of Milan, that Insurgents shortly would break Madrid's "iron ring" defenses and win the war. Observers believed it twice himself had written the article.

It asserted a clean-up of the Basque territory was all that remained before Generalissimo Francisco Franco could throw the whole weight of his forces against Madrid.

"The iron band around Madrid, like that around Bilbao which seemed impenetrable, will be broken," it said.

Government commanders said Insurgent attacks on Madrid, apparently in an effort to cut the highway to Valencia, temporary capital on the Mediterranean, were repulsed with heavy Insurgent losses.

Franco's Men Move Up

Franco's men in the north pushed five miles further along the coastal highway linking conquered Bilbao with Santander, 45 miles to the west.

The Insurgent cruiser Baleares and Canarias were reported to have joined in the attack, shelling treating Basque soldiers from the sea.

Basque army leaders entrenched 55,000 men in the Somorrostro Heights, 12 miles from Bilbao, in an effort to halt the Insurgent columns. Asturian dynamiters were reported to have ambushed and killed 150 Insurgents near Valmaseda.

In London, British statesmen studied their next move in an attempt to gain full cooperation of Germany and Italy in the non-intervention committee and the international naval patrol to prevent arms and men from reaching either side in the Spanish conflict.

Informed sources said the British leader would try to convince Italy and Germany that those two nations would be aiding the Valencia government and prolonging the civil war if they remained outside the naval patrol.

A Warning to Spain

Italy and Germany quit the patrol after Britain and France refused to sanction a naval demonstration off Valencia as a "warning" to the Spanish government after alleged attempts of its submarines to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig June 15 and 18.

Disappointment over the refusal of Britain and France to join her in the naval demonstration against Valencia remained a powerful factor in Berlin's attitude toward the Spanish crisis.

The German foreign office mouthpiece, Diplomaticche Politische Korrespondenz, said responsibility for future development of the European crisis "rests with those powers which did not desire a logical and healthy settlement of the Leipzig incident and declined to join in an act of solidarity of a defensive, preventive nature."

REPORT SINKING OF A FOOD SHIP

VALENCIA, Spain, June 26.—(P)—The Spanish merchant vessel Cabo Palos laden with foodstuffs, was reported tonight to have been sunk by a submarine off Point Hach with the loss of five members of the crew.

Forty-four survivors, including a woman who was aboard as a nurse, were taken to Alicante by another ship after they drifted for six hours in lifeboats.

Captain Manuel Hoyds reported the submarine appeared suddenly between his ship and the coast and, despite his efforts to get away, launched a torpedo which struck the vessel. He said it sank in five minutes.

NEW YORK TRIPLE SLAYER REPORTED CAPTURED IN ILL.

Chicago Newspaper Claims Sculptor Confesses Easter Killings

SAYS MOTHER WAS THE FIRST TO DIE

Murders Artist Model Second and Kills Boarder Last

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 26.—The Herald and Examiner in a copyright story said tonight Robert Irwin, sculptor hunted throughout the country for New York's triple Easter Sunday slayings, had surrendered in the Herald and Examiner office.

Detective headquarters and the central police station reported they had received no word of the man's capture.

The paper said Irwin confessed the slaying of Veronica Gedeon, artists' model, her mother and Frank Byrnes, a roomer in their New York city apartment.

In an additional statement, the paper said Irwin said his original purpose was to kill Veronica's sister, Ethel, whom he said he loved, but had married another man.

"I wanted to kill Ethel," the paper quoted Irwin as saying, "because she was the dearest object in the world to me. I loved her and hated her. I dreamed of modeling her as if beheaded, with her head far back and the mouth open."

"If my plans had carried out as they were made I would have killed her only. I did not wish to kill anybody else. The fact that I killed three others was accidental."

The paper said Irwin related that Veronica's mother was the first to die. It said he told them he went to the Gedeon apartment to wait for Ethel. Mrs. Gedeon came in and finally ordered him from the apartment, the paper continued, when he told her what he was there for.

He confessed, the paper added, that he hit her and strangled her. She put up a terrific fight, the paper quoted him saying, then, the Herald and Examiner added, Irwin said Veronica came in a short time later, he held her for nearly two hours on a bed before he killed her, and then killed Byrnes before he left.

Search Turned to Chicago

The search for Irwin turned to Chicago today after Cleveland, Ohio, police "definitely" identified as Irwin a youth who boarded a Chicago bound bus there.

Police here and throughout the midwest were notified by radio to be on the lookout for the long missing 29-year-old youth after Cleveland authorities said he fled from a cheap hotel room a few hours before a kitchen girl at another hotel notified them of his whereabouts.

The kitchen girl, Henrietta Koscianski, 19, said the youth had been working at a downtown hotel as a barboy and had used the name "Robert Murray."

The Herald and Examiner said Irwin told in detail how he killed each person. Quoting him, it said: "When I went to the house there was nobody there, that is no member of the Gedeon family. Mrs. Gedeon was the first to come home. She greeted me in a friendly way

STEPS TOWARD PEACE

The Rotarians of the world recently concluded their international convention in France, where a Frenchman, nominated by a German Rotarian, was elected as the first president of Rotary outside of the United States.

The Rotarians at their final session heard a suggestion that the clubs raise $2,000,000 during 1937 as a contribution to world peace through the exchange of students between the various countries of the world. While the plan has not been formally adopted it is being considered.

Of course, the exchange of students between nations is desirable but it cannot bring about world peace unless aided by the development of tolerance and understanding among the masses of the various nations. Some interesting steps have been taken along this line between France and Germany. These include a serious effort to revise war histories in each country so as to eliminate untruthful statements and those that work up ill-feeling between the two peoples. Moreover, it is planned during the summer to encourage French and German children to spend vacations in other countries in order to learn something about the people in the "enemy" land.

NOT PERMANENT PEACE

Permanent peace in the Chaco seems far off.

The general idea that Paraguay and Bolivia have ended the Chaco war is based upon the fact that for the past two years no fighting has occurred between the two nations.

Since the conclusion of the protocol of June, 1935, the government of both countries has been overthrown, largely through the dissatisfaction of the armies. Public sentiment in each country is inflammatory and both governments are now having difficulty in carrying out the terms agreed upon. Diplomatic relations have not been renewed and recent advances indicate that the Paraguayan army has turned against Provincial-President Rafael Franco in order not to withdraw from a Bolivian mainline road in accordance with the agreement made by Bolivian and Paraguayan delegates to the peace conference.

This development is unfortunate. It apparently illustrates the dangers which arise when governments take office upon the basis of military demand. It also emphasizes the vital importance of keeping the military authority subordinate to the civil authority of all governments.

ODDS AGAINST BRITISH GAMBLE

Since the airplane, the submarine and the long range gun reduced Great Britain's so-called "isolated grandeur" to a meaningless phrase, the loyal subjects of the House of Windsor have been striving desperately to get their feet down on some good, solid continental ground.

Now, at least, they seem to be making headway—so much, in fact, that their momentum may carry them irrevocably into the weirdest pot-purri of world politics ever seen.

Britain's proposition, as officially suggested in the recently adjourned imperial conference in London is to win German friendship and cooperation by divorcing the world war peace treaties from the League of Nations.

The effect would be, the British hope, to make the league so inoffensive to Germany that she could not refuse to rejoin. Furthermore, having done this favor for the Nazis, Britain would be in line for all the trade and good will controlled by Herr Hitler.

Britain's sincerity, the Leader and Press of Springfield says, in seeking a rapprochement with Germany can not be doubted, and it is praiseworthy that one nation had the courage to propose, at least, some way of bringing the Nazis back to the family council table of nations.

But it appears that the British gesture overlooks some possibilities which may bear importantly on the final outcome.

For instance, if the war treaties written into the body of the league have been such a thorn in Europe's side, what is to become of them if and when they are broken away from the league? However unfair the treaties themselves may be, they are the life-givers for practically all the smaller nations of Europe. With international honesty no better now than when a scrap of paper became the torch that kept world war fires burning, these smaller nations could rightly fear for their safety.

Then there is Germany's ambition as an exponent of fascism in "free" Danzig and Spain and "independent" Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Britain is gambling its heavy interest in these territories with any deal that makes the league the free-wheeling kind of vehicle that Germany wants.

At best, the British imperial conference proposal seems visionary, based on the assumption that a free-will offering and a handshake are going to effect a benevolent, overnight reconstruction of Hitler's foreign policy.

Strangest of all is the fact that the conference found this solution to a vast problem practically in one single stroke, while a proposed trade pact with the United States, promising to link the two greatest English speaking nations with a tangible bond of mutual benefit, has failed so far, to materialize because of the "long negotiations" involved.

JURORS HARD TO FIND

From the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Jury service seems to be on a genuinely satisfactory basis in few sections of the United States. A federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., indicted two men charged with jury tampering in the Parker kidnapping case, noisome by-product of the Lindbergh kidnapping. Donaldsville, La., recently had its experience when the district court spent an entire day without getting one additional juror in the case of the five persons accused of murdering Miss Genevieve Legnon.

That day's proceedings called forth a severe rebuke from the bench. Judge Henry L. Himel said he was ashamed that, when he closed the doors of the crowded courtroom and asked for volunteer jurors, only six responded, although, as he pointed out, there are between 6,000 and 7,000 theoretically eligible.

We share the court's point of view, but not his chargin at the smallness of the response. That even six persons should volunteer indicates a sense of citizenship above the average, we suspect. It would be interesting to repeat the experiment in other communities, and note the result. Certain legal technicalities may fashion, but justice might be served better if we knew how many citizens are willing to perform a duty which is the common obligation of all.

ITS VALUE

An international peace conference is generally useful chiefly because it takes the minds of governments momentarily off their war plans.—Detroit Free Press.

THE DEFECT

The great defect of the American system is that only the party out of power really knows how to run the government.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

CHAPTER 38

"COLONEL LUTMAN told you he burned the check?" asked Jacqueline incredulously.

Her mother nodded. "And he said he hoped that I would honor him by forgetting that I had ever written it. I shall. But it's very awkward having nothing fit to wear when I dine with him."

Jacqueline was silent for a time, watching her mother as she picked up dress after dress, gave it a disparaging glance, and tossed it aside. Then she said: "I saw Colonel Lutman this afternoon, mother."

"Yes—so he told me. You had a cup of tea together and a pleasant little chat, he said."

"Did he tell you anything else?" "Yes, dear. He said that he had talked it over with you again, and the affair with Jim Asson was definitely off. Jim, he said, was very out about it, but on the whole it was perhaps just as well. Colonel Lutman has a very high opinion of you, Jacqueline, and thinks that, after all, you might do very much better for yourself than Jim Asson."

"I could hardly do worse." Her mother smiled. "As a matter of fact, my dear, I believe the colonel is actually glad you've refused to marry Jim." She confided. "Of course, as an honorable man—and Jim's trustee, too—he couldn't show his feelings when you were engaged to Jim, but now that you're unattached."

"Do you mean, mother, that Colonel Lutman wants to marry me?"

"My dear, if you ask me, that's the real reason why he's taking me out to dinner. Take-a-tote, he said, and when a man says that there's always something in the wind. It's only natural that he should want to know what I think about it first. So delicate of him!"

"And what do you think, mother?"

"I think he's a very eligible husband going begging, and it's certainly worth while for any girl to be sensible about him. After all, he's quite good-looking—especially when he doesn't screw up his face to keep his eyeglass in. But I don't suppose he sleeps in his eyeglass. It isn't so much what a man looks like in his lounge suits that matters, my dear; it's the sort of creature he turns out to be in his pajamas. Your father was a dreadful disappointment when I first saw him in his pajamas. Blue and pink stripes, dear—terrible!"

"And you really think that Colonel Lutman would be a suitable husband for me? You'd really like me to marry him?"

"To like you to marry someone, Jacqueline, and Colonel Lutman has a great deal of money."

"Are you sure?"

"Quite sure, my dear. He told me so himself. And with all that money, someone ought to marry him. I should do my best to like him, Jacqueline, if I were you. He may not be the sort of husband you dream about, but no man is when you've lived with him a few months, and you wouldn't have to lie awake at night worrying about his blue dress, dear; none of these is fit to wear."

Jacqueline brought the dress, laid it to the collection on the bed, and turned to go. At the door she paused.

"Don't write any more checks, mother, will you? Not for Colonel Lutman, anyway."

"My dear, if he offers..."

"He probably will offer, but I want you to promise me that you won't let him cash any more. He might not burn the next one. Will you remember?"

"I'll try, my dear. But the sales are on, and it won't be easy. I badly need a fur of some sort, and if Colonel Lutman wants to give me one—he's very quick to take a hint, you know."

"Oh, yes, you can let him give you a fur if you want to, mother," said Jacqueline wearily. "There's no harm in that, I suppose."

Her mother became thoughtful. "I've been wondering, dear," she said, as Jacqueline opened the door to go, "what fur would be most suitable."

"As a present from Colonel Lutman?"

Her mother nodded. "Oh, skunk, I should think," said Jacqueline, and went to her own room.

It did not take her long to decide what course she must take. The obvious thing to do, since Charles was the family lawyer, was to go straight to him, tell him of her discovery of the will in Colonel Lutman's desk, and leave it to him to take whatever steps he thought advisable.

She went to the telephone, asked for Messrs. Stuckey & Stuckey's number, was requested by the voice of the estimable Mr. Bells to "hang on a minute," and a few moments later smiled as she recognized Charles' hearty "Hello!"

"Is that you, Mouthpiece?" "Hello!" repeated Charles. "Jacqueline Smith speaking."

Charles Stuckey's voice when he replied had perceptibly mellowed. "Hello, Jacqueline! Good egg! I wanted to have a word with you!"

"Say on, Mouthpiece!"

"Well, what's all this about young Jim Asson? I've had Lutman down here foaming at the mouth, and Asson gnashing his teeth, and I've been expecting all day to have your mother on the telephone blaming me because you've taken a violent dislike to the shape of young Asson's nose and refused to marry him. What's wrong with him?"

"This is only a three-minute call, Charles."

"But you were so determined to marry him."

"I've changed my mind, Charles."

"I've sudden, wasn't it?"

"Very. That's the way love works, you know. We women are fickle things."

"Well, it's got me beat, anyway."

buzzing, Charles, and if it will ease it at all I'll give you one reason. Did you know that Jim Asson has a place in the country?"

"No. Has he?"

"In Devonshire—right away on the moors—cut off from everybody. I'm afraid he might have a call to go and live there, and I should hate to go with him. Not even love could make me undertake that labor. That's a joke, Charles, which you can't understand, but you can laugh at it later when I've explained. When can I see you?"

"I shall be in all day tomorrow, Jacqueline. I want to see you particularly. Any time you like tomorrow."

"Can't it be today?"

"Sorry; today's nearly gone, you know, and I've an important appointment in a few minutes that will keep me for several hours."

"With the Master of the Rolls?"

"No—the Lord Chief Justice, the Attorney General, the Lord Chancellor, the King's Proctor..."

"Charles!"

"Seriously, I must see you as soon as possible. It's terribly urgent."

"I say, anything wrong?"

"I'm scared—really scared. I can't tell you on the telephone. But there's no one else I can tell, and I must see you."

There was a pause, and then came Charles' voice again.

"Look here, Jacqueline, I can't possibly be free until 7 o'clock, and you don't want to come to this benighted hole at that time. But I shall be home about 8, and if you don't mind coming to my flat..."

"Anywhere you say, Charles."

"Graydon street, Bloomsbury. No. 87. The bus will put you down at the end of the street, and the house is some way along on the left-hand side. I'll be looking out for you at 8 o'clock. Will that do?"

"Ninety-seven Graydon street at 8 o'clock," repeated Jacqueline. "I shall be there. It's nice of you, Charles."

"Righto, Jacqueline. And whatever's scaring you, don't let it. Goodbye."

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

WASHINGTON—The President's fishing trip to the Gulf of Mexico while Congress was in session, together with his implied rebuke of the Supreme Court for recessing with important work undone, has focused attention upon official vacations—especially presidential ones.

Frequent respite from the grind of being President of the United States long have been recognized as absolutely necessary. That grind is so grueling and wearing that to-day only one ex-President is alive, although six presidential wives survive.

Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge both believed in vacations, both enjoyed frequent cruises down the Potomac. Coolidge also invariably decamped from Washington for the summer. Warren Harding was on a summer trip to Alaska when he fatally stricken. Hoover was a hard-working President. He never went away in the summer, junked the presidential yacht Mayflower, but built his own fishing camp at Rapidan, Virginia.

Roosevelt is one of the hardest-working Presidents ever to sit in the White House, and on his numerous trips he never really is free of public business. By airplane, cable, radio and telephone he is in constant touch with his office. On his week-end cruise he is virtually always accompanied by a stenographer, spends most of his time dictating and going over reports.

Nevertheless, the record shows him to be the most junketing President in history. And probably his vacations have been more expensive than those of any other President.

Sept. 6—Returned from Nourmahal trip.

Sept. 10—Overnight fishing from Quantico, Va.

Sept. 23—Week-end fishing trip on Rappahannock and Potomac.

Oct. 9—One-day cruise down Potomac.

Nov. 18 to Dec. 4—Thanksgiving

ent—although the cost of the construction, upkeep and guarding of Hoover's camp ran into big money. A detail of marines was kept on duty there winter and summer.

The Amberjack

Roosevelt junkets began shortly after the banking crisis in the spring of 1933, during which he worked night and day. It was not until April 24 when he took Premier Ramsey MacDonald on a cruise down the Potomac, that he was able to get any relief from this grind. After that he took week-end cruises on May 1, 21, 28, June 5, and on June 17 he began his first fishing trip on the famous Amberjack, featured by the spectacular airplane visit of Professor Moley.

For the balance of the summer, Roosevelt was only intermittently in Washington. On July 5 he returned from the cruise and held a Cabinet meeting aboard the Indianapolis at Annapolis. On July 15 he went for a week-end cruise from the Marine Base at Quantico. The next month, 24 to August 3, he spent at Hyde Park, leaving on September 1 for a six-day fishing cruise aboard Vincent Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal.

The schedule of presidential jaunts in 1933 from that time on follows:

Sept. 6—Returned from Nourmahal trip.

Sept. 10—Overnight fishing from Quantico, Va.

Sept. 23—Week-end fishing trip on Rappahannock and Potomac.

Oct. 9—One-day cruise down Potomac.

Nov. 18 to Dec. 4—Thanksgiving

Dinner and three weeks at Warm Springs.

Sea Voyages of 1934

The President began his 1934 vacationing on March 28 with a two-week cruise on the Nourmahal, leaving from Jacksonville, touching Nassau, Bahamas, returning via Miami to Washington April 13. He continued:

May 7—Overnight cruise down Potomac.

May 15-14—Overnight cruise down Potomac.

May 19-20—Week-end cruise with Professor Moley.

June 4—One-day visit to Hyde Park.

June 10-11—Week-end cruise down Potomac.

July 2—Embarked on USS Houston, touching at Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Cagayan, Panama, Hawaii, Portland, Green Bay, returning to Washington August 11 after making several speeches and inspecting several PWA projects.

Aug. 19—Week-end cruise with Moley.

Aug. 26—One month at Hyde Park, until September 26.

Sept. 7-8—Week-end cruise from Quantico.

Oct. 13—Week-end cruise.

Oct. 22—Week-end cruise.

Nov. 3—Five days at Hyde Park.

Nov. 21 to Dec. 7—Thanksgiving at Warm Springs.

Stewing Congress

In 1935 the President broke the ordeal of Congress, first by spending five days at Hyde Park, from February 25 to March 1. Then on March 26 he again left Congress to stew in his own juice, embarking on the Nourmahal for the Bahamas. On this trip he met the Duke and Duchess of York.

Returning in April, he resumed his cruises down the Potomac River on April 28, May 8, and May 19. On June 8 he went to Hyde Park for a week's visit, sailed to the Jefferson Island Club in the Chesapeake on July 15, and took week-end cruises on July 20, July 28, August 26.

Congress did not adjourn until the last of August in 1935, and on September 1 Roosevelt went to Hyde Park for 23 days, before starting on a tour of the West September 25. On this trip he dedicated Boulder Dam, sailing from San Diego on October 3 for a deep sea fishing trip which took him through the Panama Canal and back via the Bahamas.

He arrived in Charleston October 23 and went to Warm Springs on October 30, after spending only six days in Washington. On November 9 he left Warm Springs on a speaking tour which took him through Chattanooga, South Bend and Toledo, returning to Washington November 11.

April 10—One-day stop at Warm Springs.

April 27-28—Hyde Park.

May 3-4—Week-end cruise down Potomac.

GRASSHOPPERS IN MANY FIELDS IN PETTIS COUNTY

Control Measures Should Be Started Says Assistant County Agent

The present prospects in Pettis county are that in many fields considerable damage may be expected from grasshoppers unless control measures are started immediately, says E. B. Winner, assistant county agent. In most cases the hoppers are still congregated around the edges of fields and are not distributed evenly throughout the field. In some pastures and meadows, however, the infestation has been found evenly distributed over the entire area. Control measures should be started immediately if it is to be expected to get the best results.

Many reports coming to the county agent's office from those who have used poison bran bait both this year and last show that good results can be expected if properly applied. O. E. Gerloff of Hughesville, has applied several hundred pounds already this year in controlling these pests. He reports that in one field on the second day following the application he found on the average of three dead hoppers per square foot.

The use of bait is cheap insurance and every farmer in Pettis county should plan now to use the bait if his crops are threatened. Federal bait is still available for Pettis county farmers and can be secured at the farm bureau service station in Sedalia.

The use of the poison mixture in pastures, hay crops and other fields will not endanger livestock, poultry or wild life if used as recommended. The bait should be scattered very thinly over the ground at the rate of twenty pounds of wet mash per acre. This application should be applied from four to six o'clock in the morning. Several applications from five to ten days apart may be necessary in controlling the hoppers.

According to George E. Jones, extension entomologist, serious damages can result to any field that is uniformly infested by more than fifteen hoppers per square yard.

Land which was sown to a soil depleting crop in the fall of 1936 and which is not cut for hay or grain in 1937 must be first cultivated or first seeded to a soil conserving crop before July 1 if it is to be classified other than soil depleting under the 1937 soil conservation program.

This amendment in crop classification which has just been sent to the county agent's office means that land which was seeded to a small grain last fall and is not being used for grain or hay and in which no soil conserving crop has been seeded to July 1, 1937, must be first cultivated before that date to classify as other than soil depleting. Also, if such land is to classify as soil conserving, a stand of soil conserving crop must be present on the land on October 31, 1937.

E. B. Winner, assistant county agent says that this ruling will apply to many farmers who have pastured off fall seeded small grains and expect to seed it to a soil conserving crop this fall. In this case the land must be first cultivated by July 1, 1937.

GET A SMART DOCTOR

A colored man was taken seriously ill and his friend asked if he should call a doctor. The sick man said, "Sure, call a horse doctor."

Dr. Roy M. Keller, Chiropractors could well qualify to take care of this case because they can come nearer determining what is the matter, without information from the patient, than any other doctor.

The spine is examined and where irritated nerves are found they know that there is something wrong at that point and the organs connected with it and they know where the nerve goes to that is involved and can, therefore, tell where one's trouble is in many cases without the patient telling the doctor. We do it often and find trouble that the patient had not mentioned but when it was called to their attention admitted the fact. Finding the trouble in this way indicated that there MUST be some connection with the irritated nerve and the disease. Chiropractors also use all the other diagnostic methods. If you want a doctor who can locate the fundamental cause—see your chiropractor.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Brownies have come into their own in Sedalia at last! On Friday, June 25, three packs of Brownies and their Brown and Tawny Owls motored to the Girl Scout Little House for an all day picnic.

Wading, games, songs, folk dancing, handwork and a big picnic lunch, lemonade and all; furnished the day's entertainment.

The Brownies were eagerly awaiting the time when they can fly up into Scouts.

Seven girls of the Arrow Troop of Mark Twain school passed their housekeeper's badge test last week at the home of Mrs. Landon Welch. They are Joan Connolly, Ruth Elaine Scruton, Patsy Pharris, Virginia Lee Sharpe, Betty Lou Wells, Rosemary Whelan and Frankie June Rodgers.

The Arrow Troop enjoyed a morning swim and picnic lunch at Liberty Park swimming pool last Wednesday.

Patsy Rissler is the first Girl Scout to pass the Child Nurse badge this summer. Her small sister, Rosemary was used as a subject by Patsy, and Rosemary seems to have fared well.

Broadway Troop No. 2 gardening group went to the Little House on Wednesday afternoon and worked on their gardener's badge. The girls report that fighting weeds in temperature of 100° is no fun. They also are discouraged because the young grasshoppers are destroying their garden.

Cheer up girls, every gardener has faced the same trouble. Any way your scribe has seen the garden and it looks fine.

TEACHERS TO STUDY ON STUDY COURSE

Twenty-three teachers of the rural and consolidated schools met in the Assembly Room of the Court House, Saturday, at 9:30 a. m. The purpose of the meeting was to appoint committee chairmen of various divisions of the State Course of Study, which are as follows:

- Language Arts—Miss Gladys Ferguson.
Science—Mrs. Carl Sims.
Social Studies—Mrs. A. B. Burke.
Fine Arts—Art—Miss Irene Smiley.
Music—Miss Louise Grinstead.
Health—Mrs. Wm. Finley.
Arithmetic—Miss Anna Margaret Wingfield.
Agriculture—Mr. Chester R. Crain.
The above chairmen, with assistants, are to make intensive study of the new State Course of Study, making a written report of their findings.

Mrs. Marjorie Neff Hoy, Rural School Supervisor of the Central Missouri State Teachers College District, addressed the group.

BLACK RUST CUTS THE WHEAT YIELD

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 26.—Black rust, the wet weather enemy of wheat, has made serious inroads on Missouri's potentially bountiful wheat crop, now at the harvest stage in most sections of the state.

Jewell Mayes, Missouri commissioner of agriculture, said today inspectors who traveled over the state reported the rust attack was "perhaps the worst in the history of the state."

Reports of damage came chiefly from western Missouri, but also from Monroe, Cooper and other central counties.

A. J. Dinsdale, Nodaway county extension agent at Maryville, estimated after a personal tour of the county that rust would cut production at least 50 per cent and mean a loss to farmers of nearly a half million dollars.

The plow and the torch were taking the place of the reaper in sections of Cass county where many farmers had turned from corn to wheat after the 1936 drought. Farmers said wheat fields which had promised a 30-bushel an acre yield would do well to average 10. A majority of fields bore the burned-tan coat of the rust.

Roscoe V. Hill, Buchanan county farm agent, reported a number of wheat fields would be plowed up and no attempt made to harvest the crop, seriously damaged by rust. A few combines started harvesting, he said, but stopped because of the low yields.

Grundy county farmers were concerned by the threat of rust damage but authoritative estimates were not available. One large grower expressed an opinion that rust was general in the county but would not materially reduce the yield or quality of the grain.

Farmers in the vicinity of Carthage reported heavy damage. Some rust damage was reported in the vicinity of Springfield but the yield there was expected to be above average.

NINE COMICS GAG STAR "SCIENCE" IN LAUGH RIOT

Paramount lets nine comedians loose on the screen in "Hotel Haywire" and as merry a laugh-provoking riot as one could hope for is the result. The picture opens today for a two day showing at the Liberty Theatre.

Headed by Leo Carillo and Yvonne Overman, and including Benny Baker and Collette Lyons, George Barbier, Porter Hall, Spring Byington, Chester Conklin and Teddy Hart, the comics have a holiday that left the audience laughing until the last sequence.

In addition to the comedians Mary Carlisle, John Patterson and Colin Tapley, play important parts in the hilarious story of an astrologer who makes trouble to make money.

Carillo, as Professor Zodiac, turns a practical joke on Overman into a serious practical joke on Overman into a serious domestic problem that ultimately finds Lynne in the di-

Selznick's "Star Is Born" Takes Fans to Hollywood

Janet Gaynor and Fredric March Score In Perfect Technicolor Film

All the thrills of a trip to Hollywood are provided local film fans in "Star Is Born," opening a three day run Tuesday at the Liberty Theatre. David O. Selznick's glorious technicolor production starring Janet Gaynor and Fredric March.

For this first really modern story to come to the screen in color is so vividly told, so convincingly played and so brilliantly directed by William A. Wellman that you leave the theatre feeling as if you'd actually paid a visit to filmland.

Janet Gaynor and Fredric March have written-to-order roles and have never turned in performances to match these.

Janet emerges a lovely, new sophisticated personality—with a rare flair for wearing clothes—as Esther Godgett, the little country girl who comes to Hollywood in search of stardom, faces the 100,000 to one odds as an extra, and soars overnight to fame.

Comedy For March
And March, as Norman Maine, the hard-drinking screen idol of the moment, who helps Janet get her first break, falls in love with her and vores courts. Their troubles play havoc with the love affair of their daughter, Mary Carlisle, and her Boss' son, John Patterson. Things are set right in what is one of the most hilarious and utterly irresponsible movie climaxes ever to reach the screen.

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Heb. 11:13—"These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 27 is the quarterly review lesson covering the book of Genesis, the devotional reading being Hebrews 11:13; 12:22 and the Golden Text, Hebrews 11:13, "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.")

"Genesis" means "beginning," and in the book of Genesis we have God's record of the beginning of all things in heaven and earth with the exception of God himself who is eternal. Of him it says in its majestic opening sentence, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

Beginning of Heaven and Earth
The Bible's chief purpose in relating the creation story is not to explain the "how" or "when" or "how long" of the creation of the universe but rather the "who" and the "why" and to lead us to know that all things are God-given and are the outflowing of divine power and wisdom of an infinite love which could not contain itself in other beings, made in the divine image and likeness and capable of communion with God in worship. God made man a worshipping being with a moral nature capable of choosing between right and wrong, that man's righteousness and virtue might not be mechanical or forced, but of free will and choice.

The Beginning of Sin
However, man disobeyed God and fell into sin of his own free will and failed God in the one and only point wherein his obedience and freedom were tested. Thus human sin had its origin. It was the proscription of liberty to selfish aims in defiance of God's clearly defined will and purpose. With it came death, which is ever the wages of sin as God had warned. But with it also came the beginning of the gospel of divine grace and love in the promise of the Savior, who, as "the seed of the woman" would bruise the serpent's head. So, from the very beginning, "where sin abounded, grace did much more abound."

The Beginning of Israel
God's plans having been thwarted in the beginnings he made with Adam and again with Noah through the persistent sinfulness of their descendants, he began a new plan with Abram. This plan was to choose a select race and develop that race as a chosen people to be a channel through which God's grace to all nations and races of mankind. Thus Abram was called from Ur of Chaldea to be the father of a spiritual race and a channel of blessing for all nations.

Under Joseph we see this chosen people taking on the form of a nation. The patriarchal family of Jacob develops under the discipline of four centuries of Egyptian bondage into a mighty people, before whom is constantly kept the hope of emancipation and return to their promised land. To this end Joseph commanded that his bones be not buried in Egypt, but prepared in a coffin ready for the nation's departure from Egypt. So the book ends with the words "a coffin in Egypt." That coffin symbolized the nation's hope of emancipation. Its return from Egypt to Canaan enforces our attention in the lessons that follow in the Book of Exodus.

EDWARD J. COMER BE ORDAINED AS PRIEST TUESDAY

Will Read First Mass at St. Patrick's Church Sunday, July 4

Edward J. Comer, son of Jesse J. Comer, 605 South Lafayette avenue, will be ordained a priest at St. Patrick's church, 2515 East Ninth street, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, June 29, by the Most Reverend Samuel A. Stritch, D. D., Archbishop of Milwaukee.

He will read his first mass at St. Patrick's church, this city, at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, July 4. Assisting in the service will be Rev. Paul A. Dunn, pastor of St. Patrick's church, archpriest; Rev. Father Baudry, C. S. S. R., deacon; Rev. F. J. Kneib, sub-deacon; Rev. E. S. Miffover, master of ceremonies; Clement Imberger, assistant master of ceremonies; Bernard Imberger, cross bearer; Richard Hays and Ernest Slatinsky, acolytes; Laurence Sullivan and Robert Foster, thurifers.

Father Thomas F. Prendergast, of Holy Cross parish, Kansas City, formerly pastor of St. Patrick's church, will deliver the sermon. Others who will take part in the service are: Flower girls—Patricia Denny, Genevieve Sullivan and Patricia Sullivan. Choir under the direction of Miss Martha Redmond, composed of Miss Helen Dorsey, Mrs. Herbert Berlin, Joe Dorsey, Virgil Hogan, James Denny, Mrs. Leaton French, Mrs. Earl Paxton, Mrs. Leola Schneider, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Miss Mary Donahue and Louis Galbraith, the last three named of Kansas City.

A dinner complimentary to Father Comer will be given by Father Dunn, pastor of St. Patrick's parish, in St. Patrick's school hall at 12 noon, Sunday, after the mass. Reservations are being made through Miss Julia Sullivan, 423 East Fifth street. Reservations close Wednesday, June 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Comer left Saturday to attend the ordination and will visit en route in St. Louis. Father Dunn leaves today, returning with Father Comer this week-end.

There will be a reception at the Comer home from 4 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY VACATION SCHOOLS

The achievement program for the Vacation Bible Schools of the city of Sedalia was held at the First Christian church.

The following program was presented with Prof. C. F. Scotten chairman of the Committee on Religious Education of the Associated Churches of Sedalia, presiding.

Song by congregation.
Invocation, Rev. D. H. Willett, pastor First Baptist church.
Salute to the Flag—led by Mrs. Doras A. Herndon.

American Flag-song—"America."
Christian Flag-song—"Onward Christian Soldiers."

Presentation by the Epworth Methodist Episcopal school.

Presentation by the First Baptist school.

Presentation by the East Broadway Christian school.

Announcements.

Presentation by the M. E. South school.

Presentation by the Evangelical school.

Presentation by the First M. E. school.

Introduction of pastors of the Associated Churches.

Presentation by the Calvary Episcopal school.

Presentation by the East Sedalia Baptist school.

Song by the congregation.

Benediction—Rev. Wright, pastor First M. E. church.

Song leader, Edwin Danforth.

Planist—Mrs. Glen Moser.

A splendid exhibit of handiwork was displayed in the basement of the church. The type of work shown told the public better than words how well the daily Vacation Bible classes do their assignments.

The outstanding number of the program was given by little Miss Elizabeth Mae Lessley, four years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lessley of 2515 East Ninth street.

Elizabeth, an attractive golden haired, blue eyed miss, stood before the large audience in the auditorium of the First Christian church and repeated all of the 66 books of the Bible in order. Her voice was certain and loud enough to be heard plainly in all parts of the auditorium. She also answered questions about the Bible which were asked her by her mother who presented her as the number from the East Sedalia Baptist church.

The remarkable part of the entire number was that Elizabeth has had no special training on learning the books of the Bible but has picked it up from hearing her older brothers learning them and surprised her family at the dinner table one evening by repeating them perfectly.

In the same way she has about mastered the ten commandments.

Elizabeth's picture is shown elsewhere in today's issue.

One Minute Pulpit
And when ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have ought against any; that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.—St. Mark 11:25.

Elizabeth Mae Lessley

Four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lessley, 2515 East Ninth street, who at the Vocational Bible school achievement program last week named all the 66 books of the Bible in order. She learned them by hearing her older brothers recite them, and surprised her family one evening by repeating them.

MEET BY JOLLY STITCHERS CLUBS

The Jolly Stitches 4-H clubs, I and II met at the club house Friday afternoon, June 25. There were six members present with one new member joining, also the club had two visitors. After the business meeting in which a vote was taken on a club song, the leader took charge and demonstrated to members of club One the cutting of garments and darning stockings.

Afterwards refreshments were served and the meeting broke up with the next meeting scheduled for July 9.

FARMER GIVES SELF UP AFTER A JAIL SHOOTING

Victim At Eminence Alleged To Have Eloped With Young Girl

By The Associated Press.
EMMINENCE, Mo., June 26.—Prosecuting Attorney L. B. Shuck of Shannon county, said tonight Miller Crane, 25, of Eugene, Mo., had been shot to death in his cell at the Shannon county jail and that Everett Count, 40-year-old farmer, was "in custody of the law" after giving himself up to a deputy sheriff this afternoon.

The prosecutor said an inquest into Crane's death had been adjourned until Monday by Dr. W. T. Eudy, Shannon county coroner. No charges had been filed against Count, Shuck said. Crane was shot through the heart.

Crane, a professional well digger, was arrested Friday near Bagnell Dam by deputy sheriffs after Count had complained to Shannon county authorities that Crane had eloped with his 16-year-old daughter, Nadine. The couple was apprehended before they had obtained a marriage license, the prosecutor said. Crane was being held pending a complete investigation of the elopement.

This afternoon, the prosecutor said he had been informed, Count sent word to Deputy Sheriff George Shultz he wanted to talk with Crane at the jail. The deputy sheriff gave the keys to the jail to a boy to deliver to Count. The boy did not wait to return the keys and a short time later Count gave himself up to another deputy saying "I've had some trouble with Crane," the prosecutor said.

The investigation disclosed Crane lying on the floor of his cell, shot through the heart, Shuck said.

Bank asked the federal court for a temporary restraining order and an injunction against unions, which, it said, closed the plant through intimidation. The company said it furnished crushed rock for the use by 1,500 to 2,000 workers on WPA and Kaw Valley drainage projects. The petition states it was filed under the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Judge Merrill E. Otis scheduled a hearing on the application for a temporary restraining order for Monday morning. The action is against the International Hoisting, Portable Steam Shovel and Dredging Engineering Union, Local No. 101; the Rock Crushers' Union, Local No. 663; and against 20 persons, allegedly members of the union, in a caravan which closed the plant June 3 and again June 22. The company claims the caravan used threats and intimidation to close the concern and leave its 40 or 50 employees idle.

A hearing on the National Labor Relations Board's complaint charging Montgomery Ward and Company with following unfair practices, reviewed in a verbal flareup, involving almost everybody concerned, including the official reporter.

Trial examiner James C. Paradise of Washington threatened to evict Carl Engkas one of the company's attorneys, from the proceedings because of "his highly contemptuous attitude toward the examiner."

The verbal bombast concerned Paradise's exclusion from the record of part of the activity which Engkas deemed pertinent. The examiner instructed the stenographer to delete certain of the proceedings, and Engkas ordered the stenographer to leave them in the record.

"Gentlemen, I can't tell what to do," the reporter finally summarized.

The examiner then instructed him to record only what he specified, on penalty of dismissal. Henry N. Ess, another company attorney, protested and moved dismissal of the complaint, declaring the record was incomplete. Paradise overruled the motion.

Before the end of the noisy session, five Montgomery Ward employees testified supervisors had asked them to join the union of Ward employees, which the board claims is company-controlled. The hearing will be resumed Monday morning. Attorneys indicated the hearing may last all next week.

and asked me to take her little dog—a Peke—for a walk. I did so. I wanted to wait until Ethel came home. I had to make excuses for waiting.

Draws Picture of Mother
"So I asked Mrs. Gedeon to let me draw a picture of her—and I did draw the picture, working as slowly as I could. I wanted to kill time. I knew Mrs. Gedeon didn't want me to have anything to do with Ethel—and I wasn't sure about that. It was all right for her to think of me as just a bum from Greenwich Village. It's natural for a mother to be careful about her daughter."

"Finally I told her I wanted to see Ethel and wouldn't go until I had seen Ethel. She turned on me. She said I was no good. She ordered me to get out. Her voice rose to a shout. And—I hit her—hit her with all the force I had."

"She fell down, still screaming. And I was on her in a moment. I had my hands on her throat. All this time that lousy Englishman, Byrnes, was just a few feet away in his room. He could have done anything, but he didn't. He must have heard her."

"She was putting up a tremendous fight. She was making enough noise, I thought, to wake the whole block. And I kept tightening my hands on her throat. I stopped her voice that way, but she was still thrashing about on the floor, fighting. I believe I held her by the throat for at least twenty minutes before the fight went out of her and she was still and dead."

"But I hadn't done what I had come to do. I had to keep on waiting—for Ethel. She was the one I felt I must kill. Must kill, I tell you. I simply had to wait for her to finish what I had planned."

"I had an ice pick with me. The door opened, but it was not Ethel who came. It was Ronnie ('Ronnie' was the nickname of Veronica). I was glad that nobody came with Ronnie. I'm still glad about that. She had a girl friend, a nice girl. I'm glad nothing happened to that girl."

"Well, Ronnie didn't see me when she came in. She went to the bathroom. She was there a long time. I didn't intend to kill her. I just thought I would knock her out and then tie her up—and wait for Ethel."

"I made a sort of blackjack out of a piece of soap wrapped up in a cloth. I had read that this was effective—that it would stun, but nothing more."

"So when Ronnie came out I was waiting in a position from which I could strike without being seen by her. I hit her, but the soap just splattered. She was not knocked out. So I grabbed her from behind, by the neck. I was very careful not to press too hard—just hard enough so she couldn't make a noise but could breathe. I think I held her that way at least an hour."

"There were moments when the pressure was relaxed enough so that she could speak a few words, not loudly. I thought she didn't know who I was. But she did. And what cost her her life was that she said so. She said: 'I know it's you, Bob. Please don't—I've had an operation.'"

"She knew me. I didn't know what to do. I didn't want to murder the whole neighborhood. I wanted to let Ronnie live if I could. She was beautiful. I hate to destroy beauty."

Identified in Cleveland
CLEVELAND, June 26.—(AP)—The girl who would not have a date with a man "definitely" identified as Robert Irwin, accused triple slayer, said tonight she "felt like a nickel" because she inadvertently helped him get away.

Cleveland police, who declared they were sure the man was the 26-year-old sculptor sought for the Gedeon killings in Manhattan East-er Sunday, agreed it was "too bad."

And they said they had little idea where the suspect, who had worked since April as a barboy in a downtown hotel, had gone.

"We're working on the theory that he may be around here still," Inspector Joseph Sweeney averred. "We think it's possible, even if not probable."

Miss Henrietta Koscianski, 19-year old kitchen girl at the hotel, grew suspicious when she saw a picture in a detective magazine resembling the barboy. Others in the hotel bolstered her belief—but it was four hours before anyone telephoned detectives.

"I didn't call police because I just thought of it as a coincidence and I didn't have the nerve to think of him as an actual killer," Miss Koscianski said. "When I found out that he was gone, then I realized that he must be Irwin. I feel like a nickel now."

"He asked me several times to go out with him, but I was a little bit afraid of him and thought he acted nervous and queer. I told him I never went out with anybody I didn't know."

New York homicide detectives expressed a strong "hunch" that a sketch the fugitive drew of the kitchen girl was the work of Irwin, but Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said he had information which made him think the man was not the sculptor.

Escapes By Few Hours
The long-missing youth escaped capture by only a few hours, police said.

He fled his cheap hotel room early today, a few hours before Cleveland authorities were tipped on his presence by the kitchen girl.

A further check disclosed he registered at the hotel where he lived on April 8—just eleven days after the garroted bodies of Veronica "Ronnie" Gedeon, 20-year old artist's model, her mother, Mary, 54, and a male roomer were found in the Gedeon's Beekman Hill apartment in New York.

The most important clue left by the one-time divinity student was a pair of old shoes which police found under his bed.

A further search of the youth's room, where he was registered under the name of "Jack Murdock," disclosed half a dozen New York newspapers. Several of them referred to the Easter Sunday slayings, and parts of each story had been clipped out.

So I kept holding on—in that careful way—just tight enough to prevent noise, not tight enough to kill—until—when I began to think that with Ronnie knowing me as she did—and I didn't have any alternative, I strangled her.

"When Ronnie was dead, I looked at her with a sick feeling all through me. Her beauty was gone. My brain was working fast. It was telling me what I had to do. The Englishman, I must kill him, too."

"I would use the ice pick on him. It was the ice pick I had intended from the first to use—on Ethel—and up to this time I had not used it on anybody. I seemed to know that there was no chance of getting Ethel, for it was almost morning. I was very tired."

"So, to finish it, I took the ice pick and went to the Englishman's room. I opened the door and he was lying on the bed, apparently asleep. I didn't believe he had been asleep all that time. I was certain he knew of my coming. He would remember that when the police came."

"I stood for a moment over his bed. I lifted the ice pick, point down, and struck. Through the temple. Then I struck again. I don't know how many times I struck. Afterwards, in the newspapers I read he had been stabbed fifteen times. I don't know. x x x

"I did not attack either of those women. Mrs. Gedeon scratched my face like nobody's business during our fight. My hands were full of blood. I smeared it on her face and on her breast. I threw her in the bedroom under the bed."

"After I strangled Ronnie I ripped her clothes off. She asked me not to attack her, that she had just had an operation. She didn't have much clothing on, only a thin chemise. That wasn't the first time I had ever seen Ronnie stripped. I never was intimate with Ronnie. She went with a class of people who were way above me."

She went with millionaires' sons and she didn't have any reason to be interested in me, except that I was interested in Ethel, but Ronnie occasionally messed around with me."

"When I went there that night I thought that after killing Ethel, then they will kill me in the chair, but didn't care. Then I said to myself that after being in the nut house all of your life, you can't make a mistake. You might, but the chances are that you won't. They'll put me in a nut house again and then I'll be there all the rest of my life and catch up with myself in a spiritual way."

"In 1932 I went to Bellevue hospital and asked the doctors to emasculate me. I had one thing in mind. The one driving impulse of a man's life was sex. I figured that if I could remove sexual impulse and put myself under pressure that could solve that problem."

"All the time I knew there was one way out of it, by murdering somebody. If I were to do something like that I would put myself on a spiritual plane and make everything even."

"I have nothing against anybody. First, I was going to kill myself. Then I said to myself I'm going to kill some one else. Last December I went to New York and stayed with the Gedeons. Then one night I said to myself I am going to kill Ethel. I never intended to get anybody but her."

Mary alone was late. She arrived at the Lighthons a few minutes after 3. Buddy was already there, waiting.

In the streets outside, there was a constant parade of cars—most of them with out-of-state licenses—but a dozen police officers kept them moving.

Miss Pickford wore a blue crepe gown and an empire felt hat. She carried a large spray of fuchsia orchids. Members of the immediate wedding party were formally attired, but the others were in semi-formal dress.

After the wedding, there was a reception at Pickfair. More than 200 persons, many of them celebrities in the motion picture world, came to felicitate the couple.

Elder Archie Brown, father of D. H. Brown, after being bed-ridden for many months, passed away at the home of his son, 2210 South Missouri Ave., Sedalia, Mo., at nine P. M. Saturday, June 26th, 1937.

Archie Brown was born in White County, Illinois near Carmi, Jan. 5th, 1859. He was the oldest son of a North Carolina pioneer family. In 1878 he united with the Little Wabash Primitive Baptist Church in White County and at the age of twenty began to preach the gospel with a determination to know nothing but Jesus Christ and Him crucified. For fifty five years he continued to preach the peculiar doctrine of election, mercy and a saving grace with never an assurance or a promise of pay. In his youthful years he farmed for a livelihood, finding ample time to minister to the spiritual needs of his flock on the Holy Sabbath. In later years he has pastored as many as five churches at one time besides finding time to travel among his brethren in fifteen or twenty states.

He was also associate editor of the principal journals and periodicals of the Old School or Primitive Baptist faith. For fifteen years he was pastor of Little Pigeon Church in southern Indiana whose old church book attests to the fact that "Thomas Lincoln Lincoln joined by experience." Little Pigeon church is today as it was in the days of the Lincolns. It has never been commercialized. Never has there been a public collection nor a paid preacher. Neither has there ever been a division nor an innovation or a change of any kind, and all his life Archie Brown has tried to preach the same kind of a sermon that he knew Abraham Lincoln listened to when he was a boy, and has vigorously propounded the ancient doctrine with which John Gano daily raised the spirits of Washington's army at Valley Forge and with which he encouraged it on every blood drenched field. Religiously, he has known No New Thing. He has now succumbed to vicissitudes of age and leaves to mourn his passing the aged and invalid wife of his boyhood, Mrs. Lucy Brown of Fort Branch, Indiana, and two sons of the same address, G. H. and L. P. Brown, besides the one who is mentioned above. Also three brothers, Jasper N., George H., and Arthur M. Brown all of Carmi, Ill., and a goodly number of grand and great-grand children.

Funeral services will be held at 2 P. M., Monday June 28th, at Gillespie's Funeral Home. Services will be conducted by Elder Lloyd Sapp, an old fashioned preacher who is Post Master at Ashland, Mo. Burial will be in Memorial Park.

Funeral of Infant
Burial services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey, who died Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams, were held Monday afternoon at the County Line cemetery.

MORE FARM TO MARKET ROADS IS GOVERNOR'S AIM

Objective For Increase In Every County He Says

Dedicating Bridge

By The Associated Press.
WELDON SPRINGS, Mo., June 26.—Daniel Boone Bridge, the thirteenth free crossing over the Missouri between St. Joseph and the stream's mouth, carried its first traffic today after a brief dedication address by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

The flow of traffic was loosed as Mrs. Stark severed a white silk ribbon across the bridge entry after the governor's address in which he predicted the new span built at a cost of $1,250,000, would serve traffic "from every state in the nation."

In his speech, Gov. Stark said the next objective in the Missouri highway department's program was the construction of more farm to market roads in every county. He promised they would be built as rapidly as possible.

Although the state highway department's policy is not to designate bridges with names in honor of individuals, Gov. Stark said he was "heartily in accord with naming this bridge in honor of Daniel Boone" as suggested by St. Charles county civic groups. Boone, the governor recalled, spent the last quarter century of his life "within a few miles of this spot."

"He and the other early settlers could not force the Missouri of today," Governor Stark said. "But by their courage, their sturdy character and indomitable will they planted civilization in the western wilderness. They established law and order and paved the way for all that we have today."

THREAT OF NEW STRIFE LOOMS ON STEEL FRONT

mine whether a majority of your workers desire to be represented for collective bargaining purposes" by John L. Lewis' C. I. O.

Protest to Davey
A 20-member C. I. O. committee representing steel men and mine workers called on Gov. Martin L. Davey at Columbus, O., and bitterly protested the use of National Guardsmen for what they described as "strike-breaking" purposes in protecting the reopening of Mahoning Valley steel mills. With the committee came 700 workers.

C. I. O. leaders tonight counted on legal action to halt the troop-guarded "back-to-work" movement in Ohio, in the event Gov. Davey should turn a deaf ear to the 20-man committee's protest.

Before calling on the governor, the union filed suit in federal court to enjoin him from using National Guardsmen to protect men returning to their jobs in the strike area.

Meanwhile, a "back-to-work" movement in Chicago—scent of the bloody Memorial Day riot at Republic steel plant there, in which 10 men died—gained in strength while strike leaders echoed defiance.

Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel Corporation—one of the four strike-affected companies of the so-called "Little Steel" group—said: "Public demand for re-opening out plant in Indiana Harbor (Ind.) is becoming over-powering. We have the question of re-opening under active consideration, but have not yet decided."

In reply, Nicholas Fontecchio, district director for the Steel Workers organizing Committee, declared: "The S. W. C. will resist any efforts to re-open the plants before a national settlement is made. Picket lines will be increased."

Replying to Hall's question as to whether the plants would be closed, Davey said:

"We have no powers to keep the plants closed. It would be a moral wrong to use that power even if we did have it. I'm not so sure but that the company could obtain a court order against me if I attempted to close the plants."

F. D. R., WIFE 34 YEARS AGO

This photo of President Roosevelt and his wife, taken in 1903, shows them as they appeared at the time of their engagement. In her autobiography in the Ladies Home Journal, Mrs. Roosevelt writes: "In the autumn of 1903, when Franklin Roosevelt, my fifth cousin once removed, asked me to marry him it seemed an entirely natural thing and though I was only 19, I never even thought that we were both rather young and inexperienced."

The union suit to enjoin Governor Davey from using National Guardsmen to protect men returning to their jobs in the strike area was termed by Edward Lamb of Toledo, CIO attorney, the first attempt ever made to keep a governor from opening an industrial plant.

On the Ohio front strike spokesmen shrugged at company claims of "normal" operations being resumed, asserting that the back-to-work movement showed little success.

"A definite check shows there has been no rush back to work," said a union statement, issued at Warren. "A great many men who have been in Republic steel plant have joined the ranks of the strikers."

Republic officials, however, claimed 5,000 men returned to their jobs today and said they expected 4,500 more to return with the night shift tonight at Youngstown.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube announced that 5,500 men came through the gates of the company's plants at Campbell and Brier Hill for the day shift.

President Roosevelt's federal mediation board disbanded today, with Chairman Charles P. Taft, II, admitting that the peace-seeking efforts of the board were "virtually closed." Taft said he planned to sail for Europe Wednesday on a vacation.

ONE KILLED AND TEN INJURED IN FLAMING WRECK

Eastern Michigan Motor-bus and Gasoline Truck In Collision

FLINT, Mich., June 26.—(AP)—One man was killed and ten persons hurt tonight in the collision of an Eastern Michigan motorbus and a gasoline truck in Mt. Morris, five miles north of here on U. S. Highway 23.

State police and deputy sheriffs who explored the wreckage after the Mt. Morris fire department had extinguished the raging flames, fed by fuel from the truck, found the body of a man they identified as H. Ferguson, the bus driver.

Two of the injured were not expected to live. They were Sid Yost, of Flint, believed to have been driving the truck, owned by the Roseline Oil Company here, and Otto Hildner, of Detroit.

Joseph Riechenback, Detroit, one of the injured, said he was startled by a "bang and the bus became a mass of flames. In a minute it was surrounded by a wall of fire."

"I jumped up and kicked out a window," he continued. "Then I helped four women crawl out."

He was burned about the legs and arms.

All of the victims were brought to Flint hospitals.

The bus had left Bay City for Detroit.

Post seed is the greatest cause of low corn yields. It pays to select good seed and to test before planting. Testing is early spring work.

A 1½-ton farm motortruck driven 5,000 miles costs about 7 cents a mile for fuel, taxes, repairs and depreciation, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Many of the worst weeds farmers in this country have to contend with have been imported with agricultural seed from foreign countries.

MRS. RICHTER IMPROVES FOLLOWING AN OPERATION

Mrs. Myers, of 215 West Fifth street, secretary of Fidelity Council No. 53, Security Benefit Association, and Mrs. Carl Richter, a sister of Thirteenth street and Ohio avenue, were admitted as patients at the S. B. A. hospital at Topeka last week.

Word received by relatives of the two state Mrs. Myers went through the clinic and it was decided an operation was not necessary, but she will remain for treatment for several days. Mrs. Richter was operated upon Tuesday and word received Saturday was to the effect she was getting along very satisfactorily.

CONGRESSMEN IN A HOLIDAY MOOD WITH PRESIDENT

Democrats Enjoy Food, Swimming, Fishing and Shooting in Bay

By The Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 26.—President Roosevelt and a swarm of Democrats found today that, however wide and deep might be their differences on serious subjects, they could agree upon the merits of food and swimming, fishing and shooting.

Even one Progressive was lured into the procession of merry-makers that traveled to sun-splashed Jefferson Island, a dot in Chesapeake Bay, fifteen miles from Maryland's capital, for a second day of fun and frolic with the President.

Representative Havenner of California, a Progressive elected with Democratic backing, was among the twenty-odd senators and more than 80 representatives who made the trip to the island.

Thus far, however, the two days of frolicking on the island had produced little indication of any serious discussion of party policies.

Representative Maverick (D-Tex.), speaking for the house liberal bloc, had urged that congress not adjourn until the administration's legislative program was enacted and quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying cryptically: "We're going through."

And Representative Voorhis of California arranged to repeat that insistence to Mr. Roosevelt again today.

Talk About Baseball

"We have got to stay here until we do a constructive job," he said unsmilingly. "Congress has a duty to perform that can't be discharged by going home."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, senate floor leader, returned to the island today. Speaker Bankhead and Representative Rayburn of Texas, house leader, had spent the night there.

Senators returning from the outing said they had talked to the President about baseball, tarpon fishing, Maryland cooking and many another pleasant subject—but not about politics.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the finance committee and a new deal wheel horse, insisted that "we just had a picnic."

Senator Murray of Montana said some of his colleagues "discussed local matters, such as public works and reclamation projects with the President and cabinet members," but added:

"I didn't hear a single mention of the court bill or the general legislative program."

Others said Mr. Roosevelt "did a good deal more listening than talking," and made little effort to guide the conversation.

One house member said although no legislation had been discussed with the President, the consensus among those attending the party was that congress should be held in session until a general farm program, the supreme court and government reorganization measures had been enacted.

"JAMBOREE" BY THE THOMPSON COMPANY

Saturday evening the Thompson Motor company entertained with what it styled "June Jamboree Party" and the event presented on the used car lot of that motor organization a crowd of about 350, which enjoyed immensely various features presented.

A group of pupils from Miss Lillian Hurley's dance studio presented several numbers in song, tap and novelty numbers winning the plaudits of the audience.

News reels, comedy and novelty shorts together with advertising shorts were presented in screen talkies.

The "Jamboree" followed a spirited auction sale held in the afternoon in which a large number of used cars went to the highest bidders many of them at exceptional bargains.

FATHER AIDS IN BIRTH OF TRIPLETS

WOOD RIVER, Ill., June 26.—Raymond Sanders aided Dr. Z. D. Lumley in the birth of triplets to Mrs. Sanders during a wind storm last night.

The three—a girl, 6½ pounds born first—and two boys, one 5 and the other 4½ pounds, were said by the middle aged physician to be normal in every respect. The mother and children were reported in good condition today.

The children were delivered in the 5-room cottage of the Sanders here. There are three other children, ranging in age from 2 to 10 years.

Mrs. Shelby is the class president and it is desired to compliment her by a full attendance.

Close-Reed Wedding

Miss Fern Beatrice Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Reed, and Mr. Ernest T. Close, son of Mrs. Mattie Close, were married at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, June 26, at the home of the bride's parents, in Green Ridge.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. R. E. Hurd of Sedalia on the lawn of the home in a setting of pink and white rambler roses and various hued garden flowers, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

Miss Gertrude Johnson played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Victor Herbert, and accompanied Miss Louise Ream who sang "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "Because," by d'Hardelet. Miss Johnson played the bridal march from Lohengrin as processional and Liebestraum, by Liszt, during the ceremony. Recessional was Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. White chiffon fashioned her wedding gown made princess style, floor length, with flowing skirt, short puff sleeves and v-shaped neck, with finger tip veil held by a garland of small white flowers. She wore silver slippers. Her bouquet was white Killarney roses and white gladioli. Miss Nellie Close, sister of the groom was maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue mous-seline-de-soie, made floor length with short cape. Her bouquet was of yellow sweet peas. She wore a head dress of flowers.

Mrs. George Johnson of Kansas City was matron of honor. Her dress was of pink mous-seline-de-soie, made floor length with short cape. Her bouquet was pink briarcliff roses, and she also wore a head dress of flowers.

Little Marilyn Close, niece of the groom was flower girl. She was dressed in green-dotted swiss, floor length with yellow sash and hair ribbon.

Harlan Jones of Post Oak, acted as best man for Mr. Close. George Johnson of Kansas City was groomsmen.

At the close of the ceremony the bride sang "I Love You Truly," by Bond.

After the ceremony a reception was held. Mrs. Mattie Close, received by Mr. and Mrs. Reed. Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was beautiful with a number of garden flowers. A four-tire bride and groom, was cut by the bride.

The bride is one of Green Ridge's charming and talented young ladies, with a singing voice of great quality. She is a graduate of the Green Ridge high school and of Central Business College, Sedalia and was employed in Sedalia for a time. At the present she has a position as accountant with the Universal Credit Company of Joplin. She is superintendent of the children's department of the Methodist Episcopal church, South of Joplin, and president of the Dorcas Missionary Society of the church.

Mr. Close is also a Green Ridge boy of fine character. He is a graduate of Green Ridge high school and of Central Business College, Sedalia. He is a cabinet maker and has an adequate electrically equipped work shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Close left Saturday night for a honeymoon trip through South Missouri. Mrs. Close's going away dress was of navy blue and white, small checked sports net, with white trim. She wore a large navy blue straw hat, with white accessories. They will reside in Joplin.

Many expressions of friendship and esteem have been given Mrs. Close since the announcement of her engagement was made known to a few friends at a tea given Sunday afternoon, May 23, at Joplin. This was followed by an announcement party for Green Ridge friends given by Miss Nellie Close, Sunday afternoon, May 20.

A miscellaneous shower was given for her at Joplin by Miss Virginia Harris. This was followed by a picnic supper given by Miss Catherine Chinn at McClelland Park, Joplin. A slumber party was given for her at the home of Miss Harris before her return to her home here.

MISS OTTEN BE GUEST SOLOIST IN CONCERT HERE

Popular Young Singer To Be On Philharmonic Chorus Program

A rare vocal treat is in store for the music lovers of Sedalia when Laura Kathryn Otten, "The Missouri Nightingale" appears as guest soloist with the Community Philharmonic Chorus at its next popular price concert, Friday evening, July 2, at eight o'clock. The place will be announced later.

Miss Otten, who is but 17, was born in Versailles, Mo., and but recently finished her high school course there. She has for some time been studying voice with Miss Bertha Jaeger at the Kemper Military Academy in Boonville. Even at the age of fifteen "the little Versailles soprano" won first place in her district in state-wide vocal contests, and at both sixteen and seventeen the same top honors came her way. She decided that her voice would be her career. "And wisely so," declared Miss Jaeger of her pupil, "for she is a singer of extraordinary native talent, with a voice of unusual range, power, and sweetness, and an interpretive ability that mark her as one destined to go far in the realm of song."

Laura Kathryn Otten

Professor J. P. Alexander, director of music at the Smith-Cotton high school, and who during the current season is directing the Philharmonic Chorus, enlisted the appearance of Miss Otten as guest soloist. "Her's is a voice and a presence that will captivate her hearers," said Professor Alexander. "Those of us who have heard her sing feel we are fortunate indeed to have this gifted girl as the featured soloist at our concert. In my opinion it will not be long before Laura Kathryn Otten will be a name known far and wide as possessed by one who has the true gift of song. And best of all, she is what they in Hollywood would call a 'natural'—a quality which no amount of study, perhaps, will ever take from her, and which but adds to her charm before an audience."

"In The Lighter Vein"

John Z. Montgomery, president of the choral organization, announced that in keeping with the season, the numbers that will be sung, both by the chorus and by its soloist, will be "In the lighter vein." It promises to be an enjoyable summer evening of real song treats that will bring out the splendid progress made by the chorus, and introduce to the record-breaking crowd expected to attend, a soloist they will be glad they heard," he declared.

This will be the first concert by the chorus under the baton of Professor Alexander.

LOUIS TO TAKE ON FOORD, DOYLE OR HARVEY IN LONDON

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Mike

Jacobs, the man at the throttle of the heavyweight parade, threw it wide open on his return to broadway today from Chicago.

He definitely announced his newly-crowned heavyweight champion,

Joe Louis, will fight abroad this summer, probably in the Wembley

Arena, London, in August.

Mike ordered his attorney, Sol

Strauss, to sail at midnight to close for an August bout between Louis and either Ben Foord, the South

African; Jack Doyle, the Irish

Thrasher, or Len Harvey.

"I have had a half dozen trans-

Atlantic telephone conversations with Arthur Elvin, Wembley Arena promoter," said Mike. "Almost everything has been agreed to except an opponent. Elvin says he can get either Foord, Harvey or

Doyle and they are agreeable to us if we can't have Tommy Farr."

Farr, conqueror of Maxie Baer, already has signed to fight Max

Schmeling.

Jacobs, who has Louis signed to a new contract covering five years, plans to keep the Negro busy. He expects to have him back here for a title shot with Schmeling in New York, Chicago or Detroit in September.

Plans are for Louis to go to England in mid-July to complete training for his first start since his smashing knockout of James J.

Braddock in Chicago last Tuesday night.

Meantime, the deposed champ who apparently is just as popular as when he wore the crown, is not lacking offers.

Sydney Huls, another London

promoter, cabled Joe Gould today for terms for a bout between Brad-drack and either Max or Buddy Baer, both of whom still are in England.

ATHLETICS PLAY VERSAILLES NINE THIS AFTERNOON

Sedalians Hope to Even
Score for 15-Inning
Defeat Recently

The Sedalia Athletics baseball club will meet the undefeated Versailles Midgets in a return game at Liberty Park at 3 o'clock this afternoon in an attempt to avenge a 6-5 loss the locals suffered in a 15-inning struggle here two weeks ago.

The Midgets who have piled up 24 victories since their last defeat midway in the 1936 season plan to send "Skinny" White, their curve ball specialist, to the hill in an effort to make it two straight over the Sedalians. White fanned 17 Athletic batsmen in the first game.

Gene Horner will be on the mound for the Athletics with Sauter doing the catching.

The probable lineups:
Versailles: Stith, 2 lb; Ball, ss; Coester, 3b; Cooper, 1b; Warne, cf; Albers, cf; Cable, rf; Burke, c; and White, p.

Sedalia: Light, ss; Lobaugh, 2b; Small, 3b; Livengood, 1b; Barnes, cf; Brownfield, cf; Zey, rf; Sauter, c; and Horner, p.

COCHRANE QUOTED AS SAYING HE'LL NOT CATCH AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—In a copyrighted interview published today, Joe Williams, sports editor of the New York World Telegram, quotes Mickey Cochrane as saying definitely he will "never catch another game."

Williams interviewed Cochrane in a Detroit hospital, where the manager of the Detroit Tigers is recuperating from a skull fracture, the result of being "beamed" by Bump Hadley of the Yankees in a game here May 26.

"As a player I'm through for all time," Williams quoted Cochrane as saying. "Whether I'll continue as manager I can't say."

Cochrane, discussing the accident, blamed himself. He said he lost the ball in the sun.

Asked whether he thought batsmen should be compelled to wear protective headgear or a helmet, Cochrane replied "absolutely."

Expedition of Robert Stuart From Astoria, Oregon To St. Louis

Compiled by Historical Society of Missouri, Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secy.

No chapter in the history of the Oregon Trail rivals that of Robert Stuart's overland expedition of 1812. 1813 from Astoria, Oregon, to St. Louis. For, though the expeditions of Lewis and Clark and of Wilson Price Hunt preceded that of Stuart, it was Stuart's route and that of his five intrepid companions which made practicable the route of the later Oregon Trail over which were to toll westward the tens of thousands of Oregon and California immigrants.

The complete story of Stuart's memorable expedition, which departed from Astoria on June 29, 1812, one hundred and twenty-five years ago this week and which arrived at St. Louis on April 30, 1813, after covering (according to Stuart's estimate) over 3,700 miles, has become known through the publication of his journal within the last two years. This journal, edited by Philip Ashtown Rollins, completes the trilogy of diaries of the first three overland expeditions across the western half of the United States and takes its place as a travel classic beside the journals of Lewis and Clark and Hunt.

Stuart, a native of Scotland, had become a member of John Jacob Astor's Astoria enterprise as a result of his partnership in the Pacific Fur Company, and in September, 1810, had sailed from New York on the Tonquin. After his arrival at the mouth of the Columbia in March, 1811, and the establishment of Astoria that year, it became necessary to send an express to New York and for this purpose Stuart and his companions set out on June 29, 1812, for St. Louis.

Stuart's companions, Ramsay

Crooks, Robert McClellan, Benjamin Jones, Francois Le Claire, Andra Valle and John Day had been members of Hunt's westbound overland expedition of 1811, the members of which had commenced struggling into Astoria in the early part of 1812. Of these, Day, whose deranged nerves or brain snapped under an overtaxed physique within the first four days of the expedition with Stuart, had to be sent back to Astoria.

Having made their final leave-taking on June 29, Stuart's party started out in canoes up the Columbia River. The route through Oregon and Idaho was in general that of Hunt's and followed Indian trails along the banks of streams. In Wyoming, Stuart turned abruptly south, where, it seems conclusively proved by Rollins, he was the first white man to traverse South Pass. By his pursuit of a more southerly route which brought him to the upper canyon of the North Platte and thence along the Platte to the Missouri, Stuart wove South Pass, the Sweetwater River and the Red Buttes into and unintermitting trail. In this, he laid the route that was to prove practicable for the immigrant whereas the more northerly route of Hunt was to prove prohibitive to all except the sturdiest.

Stuart's journal, which records the trip, contains careful notes on the Indians, animals, plants, trees, the natural terrain of the country and the hardships encountered by the expedition. Among the last, he tells of hostile and thieving Indians, treacherous and swollen streams, insect pests, intense cold, heavy snows and threat of starvation. An entry of October 13, 1812, records a desperate proposal of cannibalism by one of the Canadians which Stuart, with abhorrence, checked with a threat to shoot the author of the proposal.

The arrival of the expedition in St. Louis in the spring of 1813, was heralded by newspapers in the East—in Washington, D. C., Boston, Baltimore, and New York. On May 15, 1813, the Missouri Gazette published an interview which stated: "By information received from these gentlemen, it appears that a journey across the continent of N. America, might be performed with in a wagon, there being no obstruction in the whole route that any person would dare to call a mountain in addition to its being much the most direct and short one to go from this place to the mouth of the Columbia river."

Though the Gazette's notice of the arrival at St. Louis of the Stuart expedition preceded by many years the subsequent immigrant trains which were to pass over the route made possible by Stuart, it might well have borne the caption: "The Opening of the Oregon Trail."

Adventuring in Palestine, by Marion Rubinstein. Life in modern Palestine is described as seen by three little girls sent from Germany to relatives in one of the new Jewish communities. They see what modern industry and science are doing in that old country, they visit children's schools and farms, and the cities of Jaffa, Haifa, and Jerusalem. The Chinese Twins, by Mrs. Lucy Fitch Perkins. In a remote village in China the ten-year-old twins, Moon Flower and Golden Boy, lived with their grandmother and their parents and a baby brother in a little Chinese house. They were in the field or gathered fuel, fed the pig, or braided straw for hats. They had a desire for learning that led them into remarkable adventures.

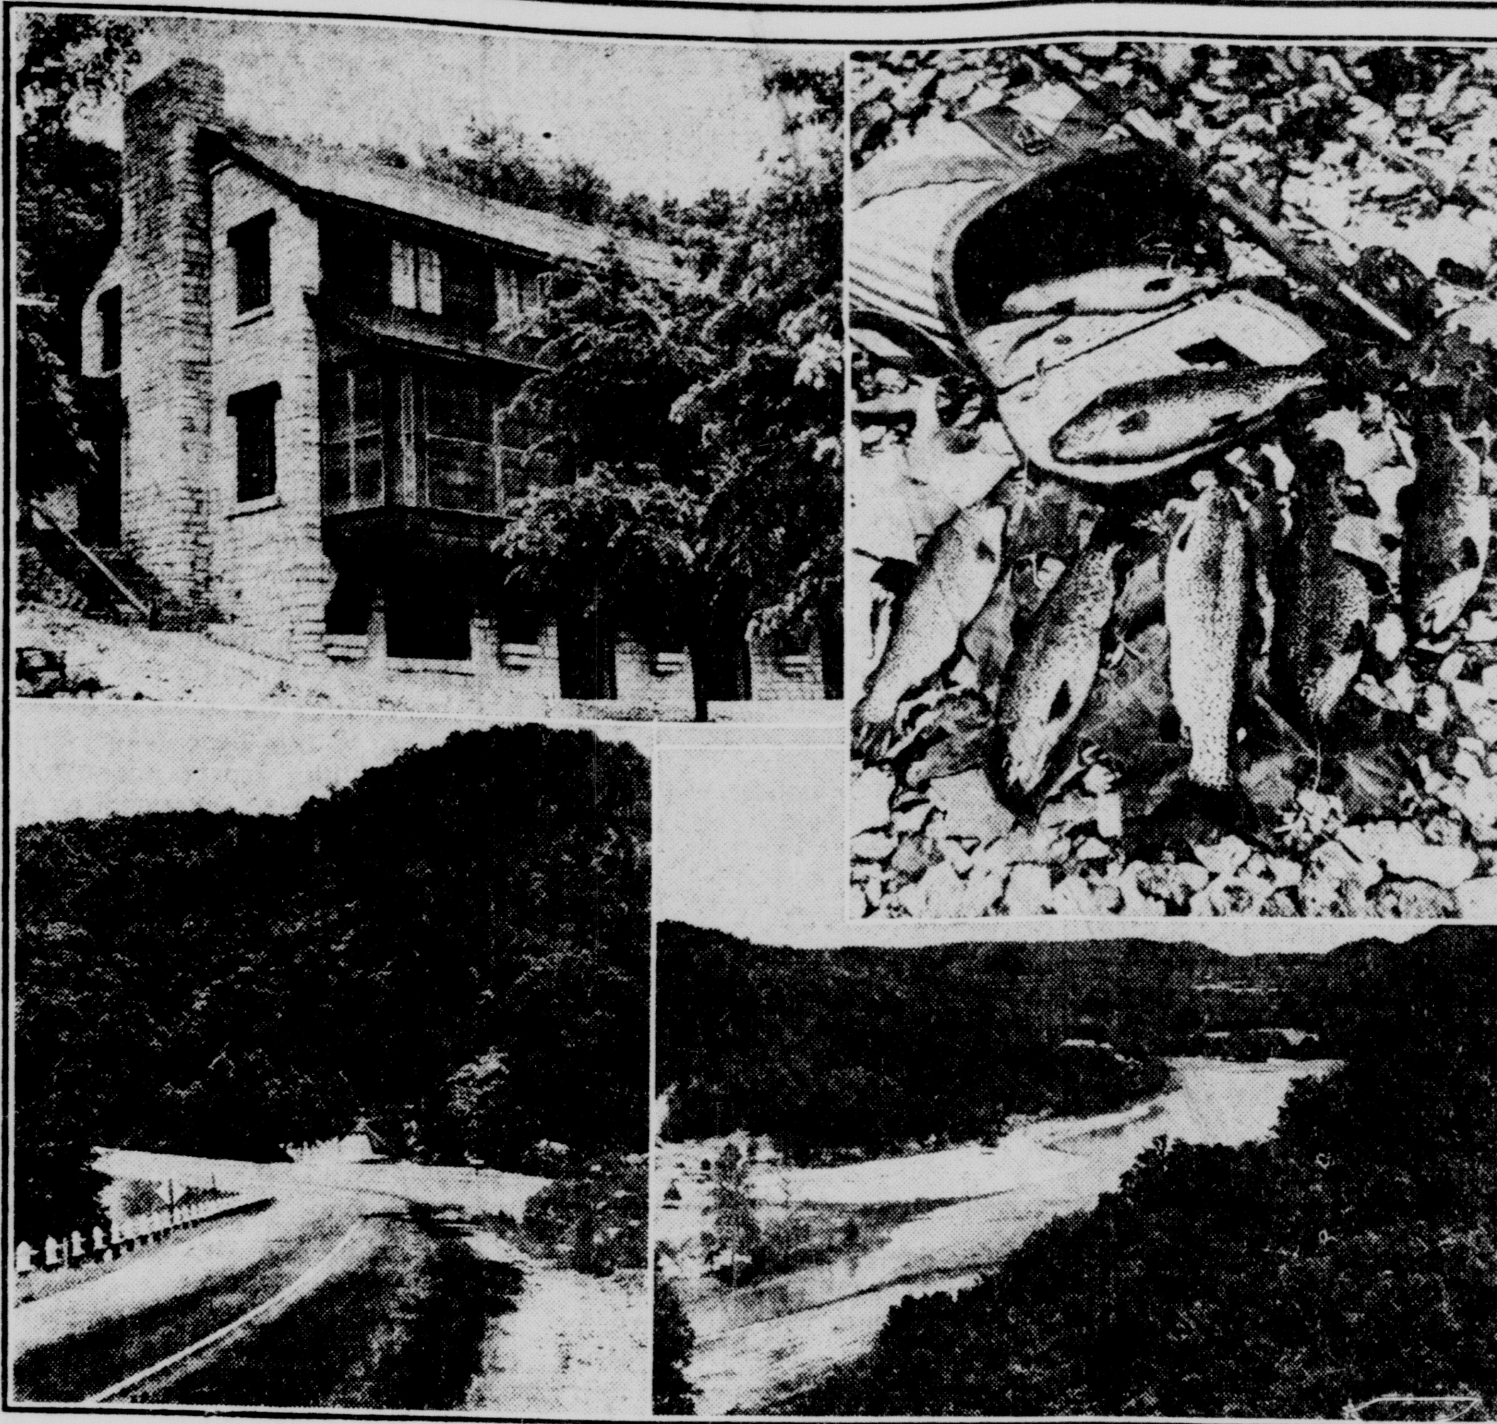

Come Summer, by Virginia McCarty Bare. In an effort to make a living and maintain a home, Denise Owen, aged nineteen, and Chris, two years her junior, with the three younger Owens, take up their abode on a small farm in New Hampshire. Their first year, marked with many lucky breaks, is successful and they win the approval of Aunt Cora who had opposed the scheme.

Grindstone Farm, by Henry Lent. A visit to Grindstone Farm with Hank to show you around will be lots of fun. Put on your overalls, for perhaps you'll have a chance to help. This is a dairy farm so you'll learn a lot about cows and caring for the milk. And you can go to the County Fair where the best farmers' exhibits win blue ribbons. The Jinx Ship, by Howard Pease. A foreboding sense of mystery had settled upon the tramp steamer "Congo" on which Tod Moran shipped as fireman; bound out of New York for Caribbean ports. Several strange events on board only served to increase Tod's determination to solve the mystery and lay the jinx. Old Spain in Our Southwest, by

NEW DEVELOPMENT AT MISSOURI STATE PARK

JEFFERSON CITY, June 26.—(AP)—Both anglers and their "widows" are provided for in new 30-acre bass lake and recreational area to be opened at Roaring river state park in Barry County July 1.

For bass enthusiasts there is Roaring River Lake—some call it just plain "bass lake"—fed by a spring at the rate of 20 million gallons of sparkling water daily.

It spills over a waterfall into Roaring river, and it is in the fast water of this stream, where year-round temperature remains at about 55 degrees, that rainbow trout give energetic response to a well directed fly cast.

For the non-fishing members of the angler's family there is a new beach at the upper end of the lake. Cottages and picnic grounds will be ready for use when the lake is opened.

The park, about 2,660 acres in area, is located eight miles south-east of Cassville on park-connecting highway No. 112 from highway 37.

WARNS OF ANY ABANDONMENT IN RANKS OF G. O. P.

Hyde Says "I Want My Party to Stop Apologizing and Retreating"

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 26.—(AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, Missouri Republican leader, told a party rally here last night he opposed a proposal to abandon the party, but added, "I want my party to stop compromising, apologizing, retreating."

Hyde, former governor of Missouri and secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, first directed an attack on the New Deal, asserting the country "is being subjected to a series of social disturbances."

... led by Lewis, endorsed by the Red Internationale, staffed by Communists and supported by Roosevelt."

Then Hyde turned to a criticism of the position taken by the Republicans in the last presidential campaign.

"Faced with decision on the same vital principle which gave the party birth, we hesitated," he said. "Confronted by a challenge upon which no free man can be neutral, we compromised."

"We said, in effect, that the New Deal with all its denials of individual liberty was correct in principle but too expensive, and not well administered. We offered to administer it cheaper."

Saying he intended no criticism of any person or official in the party, Hyde asserted "our campaign was meaningless."

"We lost vastly more than an election. We lost the opportunity to weld seventeen million freemen into an informed, alarmed, determined, coherent army of American defenders. For that reason, Republicans are today confused, leaderless, and voiceless."

He analyzed the possible forms opposition to the New Deal might take in the next campaign—a "coalition of great names" and a party of conservative Jefferson Democrats.

The first, he said, held "no promise." He described coalition as meaning, inevitably, "the compromise of principles to attain power."

Regarding a conservative Jeffersonian Democratic party, he said many Republicans would join such a movement, "because they could not support the party which has despoiled liberty and sabotaged her institutions."

"But there are ten millions of men who are Republicans because they were born that way, who follow the Republican flag because it is their flag, to whom Republican traditions and history, Republican hopes and idealism are part of their lives."

BERNICE FELTON IS ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Companion of Hitch-Hike Slayer Freed By An Arkansas Jury

LONOKE, Ark., June 26.—(AP)—Bernice Felton, 18-year-old Rockford, Ill., girl was acquitted of a charge of murder Friday in the May 6 hitch-hike slaying of Victor A. Gates. The jury deliberated one hour and twenty minutes. She testified in her own defense.

Her traveling companion, Lester Brockelhurst, 23, Galesburg, Ill., confessed slaying of Gates, was given death yesterday for the crime. He was sentenced late today to die in the electric chair August 27.

Brockelhurst, standing between two state rangers, faintly as the judge concluded the sentencing with the words: "And may the great Lord Almighty have mercy upon your poor soul." He was carried unconscious to his jail cell. Judge Waggoner called the "crime tourist" before him for sentencing after the jury that heard Bernice's trial retired to consider its verdict.

"I want a new trial," Brockelhurst said.

Ignoring the remark, Judge Waggoner remarked: "Without warning or excuse, without giving him a chance, you shot Victor A. Gates in the back of the head with a pistol. You took the life of a helpless man and left his body there in a ditch at the mercy of the beasts of the forest."

"You claim to be a Bible student. I have often wondered since your arrest if you ever read that part which says: 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

Bernice's father, Abraham Felton, a Rockford WPA worker, took the girl into his arms when the acquittal verdict was announced.

"It's too wonderful to believe," Bernice exclaimed. "I can't thank this jury enough."

Bernice still faces a federal charge of violating the Dyer act by transporting Gates automobile from Arkansas to New York.

LOCKING UP OFFICIAL "GOING TOO FAR"

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 26.—Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, told a delegation of protesting WPA workers from New York City today that such demonstrations as locking a New York official in his office last night was "going too far."

Williams said he "deplored" the occurrence in which striking workers on arts projects imprisoned Harold Stein, their administrator, in his office for eight hours.

"I believe that hurt the cause of the unemployed," Williams said. "People of America will get to feel this thing (relief) has gone too far. A few more things like that and you might as well kiss WPA out of the window."

The group of 62 was headed by Chet La More, a young painter, and included men and women, whites and Negroes. The "lady MacBeth" of a Negro WPA play was among the speakers.

Edward Gahan, acting as press agent, said the workers felt they had won some concessions and would return to New York after a picnic given them by Emil Ludwig, the German writer.

Williams said he would investigate all charges of unfairness but would not approve any agreement secured from Stein "under duress."

GARDEN HINTS

Lilies
Lilies can be raised from seed, and is not difficult to do, once you have learned how it is done.

This is the very time to start—out doors in cold frames or open seed beds. There are a few simple directions you must use.

The three most successful kinds and the best are the regal lily (Lilium regale), the new Philippine lily (L. philippense formosanum) and the coral lily (L. tenuifolium). The regal lily is the easiest to handle. The coral lily is a native of Siberia. It's brilliant scarlet waxy blooms and dainty, habit of growth make it a gem in the spring garden. The philippine (or dream lily), although a newcomer, is rapidly becoming very popular.

Now with the seed in hand a cold frame is the best place to sow it until killing frosts are over. Some times the hardiest varieties of lilies are killed by light frosts. If a cold frame is not available sow them in boxes in the house. Use light soil and keep it moist all the time. Keep the boxes covered with several thicknesses of newspaper until germination takes place. After most of the seeds appear to have sprout, set the box out doors during the day, but do not let the sun or wind dry the soil out. Transplant the seedlings to an out door seed bed after the weather has become thoroughly warm.

In either a seed bed or cold frame make sure that there is a good six inches of fairly rich, friable soil on top. Leaf mold, sifted compost or humus—as sold in the bag—is the best food for lily seedlings.

Good drainage is the first essential of success in raising lilies. Toward the last of June make a lath cover for either frame or out of door bed to protect the seedlings against two much burning sun and drying winds. Keep them on during sunny days and remove them in cloudy or rainy weather because an adequate supply of moisture over the summer is very important.

There are many other kinds of lilies besides those mentioned at first which can be successfully grown from seed.

ORDER O'MALLEY TO RETURN SECURITIES

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves today ordered R. E. O'Malley, state superintendent of insurance, to return approximately $250,000 in securities of the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company of Kansas to ancillary receivers here.

The company is in federal receivership in Kansas; and the securities now in O'Malley's possession were deposited with him by the U. S. Reserve Insurance Corporation, a Missouri concern.

Today's action followed a series of court maneuvers during which O'Malley contended the deposits were made for protection of Missouri policyholders of the U. S. reserve.

PROFIT TAKING CUTS GRAIN PRICES

By FRANKLIN MULLIN
Associated Press Market Writer
CHICAGO, June 26.—The buying momentum that lifted wheat prices almost four cents yesterday evaporated today, leaving the pit at the mercy of profit taking and commercial selling to prevent marketing losses that beat values back down more than a cent at times.

The market had a day of erratic price fluctuations. Profit takers rushed to sell at the opening bell to take advantage of gains of 12 to 13 cents a bushel since the market touched its low early this month. Then, when this liquidation dried up, rallies took place, fractionally above Friday's close, but another burst of selling carried the market down about two cents from the day's high. A final rally of a cent occurred before the last bell.

The wheat pit was called upon to digest the usual run of drought complaints from Western Canada and wheat and grasshopper reports from crop experts examining domestic grain but advice received by a leading commission house indicated grain trade sentiment in the northwest holds to the belief that the United States spring wheat belt as a whole is slowly but surely rounding out on of the best crops in several seasons.

Wheat closed with a net loss of 3/4 to 1 cent for the day, July $1.15 1/2 to $1.15 1/4, September $1.16 1/2 to $1.16 1/4, December $1.18 1/2 to $1.18 1/4, and corn was 3/4 cent off to 1 cent up, July $1.23 1/2 to $1.23 1/4, September $1.08 1/2 to $1.08 1/4, December 79 1/2 to 79 1/4. Oats gained 1/4 to 1 1/4 cents, July 42 1/2 to 42 3/4, rye was unchanged to 1/4 cent off, July 57 1/2 to 57 1/4, and hard gained 5 to 15 cents.

Factors checking buyers' enthusiasm in wheat included declines of more than two cents in Kansas City and Minneapolis values at times.

Strength in July and September corn was associated with statements that only 128,000 bushels of contract corn are stored in Chicago public elevators. Favorable crop prospects caused the weakness in December. Oats followed corn and rye paralleled wheat.

Provisions rallied in sympathy with corn and with higher hog values this week.

HAND BURNED IN
GASOLINE BLAZE

Hinton Parker, colored, mechanic at the Thompson Chevrolet Motor Co., received a severe burn on the back of his right hand when a can of gasoline caught fire as he was pouring the gasoline into a carburetor on a 1935 Chevrolet sedan in the 400 block on South Ohio avenue, Saturday morning.

Both fire companies answered the alarm at 10:55 o'clock.

The car belongs to Marjorie Neff, Hoy of Marshall.

At 9:36 o'clock Saturday morning the companies were called to sixteenth street and Beacon avenue where a Plymouth sedan emergency brake had caught fire. Slight damage resulted.

The car is owned by "Billy" Reed.

LONG AUTO TOUR
TAKEN BY "GRADS"

HERCULANEUM, Mo., June 26.—A 2,400-mile automobile tour supplanting traditional commencement exercises at the Herculanum high school this year and school officials said "We are more than pleased with the results."

The trip still is the topic of conversation in homes of the 27 members of the graduating class.

Instead of the handed-down custom of listening to speeches, attending parties and marching down the aisle in cap and gown, the class took a two-week's tour in the east.

The board of education furnished two school buses and the money usually paid for commencement week speakers went for gasoline.

One bus carried the students and teachers who chaperoned them, and the other carried tents, cooking equipment, provisions and luggage.

At the end of each day's trip—200 miles—the 16 boys set up camp, while the 11 girls prepared the meals.

The itinerary included four days in Washington, several days along the New Jersey coast with a deep sea fishing expedition, and two days in New York.

A fund of $150 to cover expenses of the tour was raised by members of the class through class plays and other activities. Each boy and girl took along $10 for personal incidentals.

"The commencement tour was so successful from every point of view," said Superintendent of Schools R. E. Taylor, who accompanied the group, "that it looks as if the class of 1937 set a precedent which succeeding classes will insist on following. The school sponsored the venture as an educational experiment. We were more than pleased with the results."
